Arizona State Preview

By LONNIE COLLINS

For Sun Devil fans, it's been a long off-season. For second year head coach Dirk Koetter and his staff it's been a busy one. There's a lot to be done.

Coming off a disappointing 4-7 season, climaxed by an embarrassing 34-21 loss to rival Arizona, and a 52-42 loss to UCLA, there were few highlights.

But fans have short memories. In this business, a few key additions and several less injuries, plus a break in scheduling, and a season can turn in a hurry.

Still, A-State's program, under its new coach - the seventh since 1979 - faces a major rebuilding task. Especially at quarterback, offensive line and the defensive front.

Scoring was no problem. Talent-wise, the offense was the team's strength. Defensively, the Devils were so thin at some positions they played four and sometimes five freshmen.

QUARTERBACK HUNT

Since quarterback Jeff Krohn transferred out (UMass), that position becomes a race between sophomore Andrew Walter, who started the final two games, redshirt freshman Chad Christensen, and JC transfer Andy Goodenough.

Christensen seems to be an early favorite. The former Scottsdale Desert Mountain product, the Class 5A all-star quarterback two years ago, looked good in the spring. All three candidates had their moments, both good and bad.

Whoever gets the call will operate behind an offensive line which lost four starters, three to the NFL draft: Levi Jones (Cincinnati Bengals), Travis Scott (St. Louis Rams), and Kyle Kosier (San Francisco 49ers). Like Christensen, all three are former Arizona high school products.

Junior Regis Crawford (6-3, 303) has moved from right guard to left tackle, in an effort to protect the quarterbacks blind side. Junior college transfer Tim Fa'aita (6-1, 315) moves in at left guard, with junior Tony Aguilar (6-3, 283), a former Superior High star, at center. Sophomore Drew Hodgson (6-3, 287) and junior Damien Niko (6-5, 285) line up at right guard and tackle respectively. Niko is a former all-state selection from Mesa Mountain View.

STUPID QUESTIONS

"As young and inexperienced as some of them are, I've been pleased with how hard they've worked in the offseason," said Koetter of his team in March. The

Jason Shivers
South Mountain

Daryl Lightfoot
Maryvale

Devils new coach learned, among other things, that the talent and depth left him by the previous staff was far less than expected. When asked in September about making the coaching transition from a small school in Idaho to a Pac-10 school, Koetter answered, "I think that question is a joke. I've coached in every major conference. Dennis Erickson (Oregon State) coached at Idaho, Mike Bellotti (Oregon) coached at Chico State, Mike Price (Washington State) coached at Weber State and Bob Toledo (UCLA) coached at Pacific. What's the difference? Football is football at every level."

SKILL SPEED

Speed, if not experience, is a strength at the skill positions, especially offensively. Redshirt freshmen Cornell Canidate (5-9, 190), a Phoenix Alhambra product, and Hakim Hill (6-0, 210), reinstated following legal problems in Iowa, join junior Mike Williams (6-0, 200) in the backfield. Canidate is the youngest brother of St. Louis Rams running back Trung Canidate, while Hill is the son of former A-State great J.D. Hill.

The headliner at wideout Shaun McDonald (5-9, 172), one of the best in the Pac-10. The former Phoenix Shadow Mountain star caught 47 passes for 1,104 yards and 10 touchdowns. A sprint star in high school (10.56/21.48), McDonald is a "big play" artist after catching the ball. In fact, much of ASU's receiving corp looks like "who's who" from the Arizona schoolboy ranks. Besides McDonald, Koetter and his staff look for improved play from Justin Taplin (Tempe Union), Daryl Lightfoot (Phoenix Maryvale) and Matt Miller (Mountain View), to list a few. Taplin, Lightfoot, McDonald, Williams, Hill, Canidate and Miller can all be used on specialty teams as kick returners. The long snapper appears to be Jay Breckenridge, a senior from Bisbee. Mike Barth, a senior from Mountain Pointe, returns for his senior campaign at placekicker.

DEFENSIVE HEADACHE

There are more questions than answers on this side of the ball. But some bright spots stand out, like defensive end and safety. In third-year starter Terrell Suggs (6-3, 240), ASU has one of the best in the league. The All-American candidate from Chandler anchors a young and inexperienced front, made up mostly of non-starters and JC transfers.

At safety, defensive coordinator Brent Guy returns a good one, sophomore Jason Shivers (6-1, 190), who led the team in tackles (89) as a true freshman. For his efforts the former South Mountain speedster (10.67/21.57) was named to The Sporting News Freshman All-America Team.

Although overall depth is a Sun Devil weakness, speed is a major plus. Unfortunately, the first test is in Lincoln, Nebraska.

Defensive end Terrell Suggs was a first team all-Pac-10 pick.

Dirk, please burn those maroon pants!

Webster's Collegiate Dictionary, at least my 1986 edition, describes tradition, among other things, as "the handing down of information, beliefs and customs by word of mouth or by example, from one generation to another, without written instruction." I doubt that that has changed much since 1986, except for maybe at Arizona State.

Last November, Arizona State's Sun Devils, under the direction of first-year coach Dirk Koetter, hosted rival Arizona in the state's annual grudge match. The host Devils played exactly like they looked. Horrible.

Watching Arizona State's once proud football teams play a game - against anybody - dressed in maroon gear from the neck to the ankles is hard for many alums to stomach.

Whatever happened to tradition? Especially the many little things which surround all great programs. Say what you want about schools like Michigan, Penn State, Alabama, Oklahoma, Texas, USC, UCLA, or pro teams like the Oakland Raiders or Boston Celtics - love them or hate them - one thing never changes: They always look the same. How they dress is a big part of their rich and glorious athletic heritage.

But the debacle surrounding ASU's obnoxious attire - for those who care - can't be blamed on Dirk Koetter. This lack of respect for tradition started long before he and his staff arrived. The damage was done before Koetter bought a house in town.

Changing uniform colors, as ASU drastically did under former football coach-turned clothes designer Larry Marmie, is for losing programs. History backs this up. There's few exceptions. Check out the New Mexico States of the world. As coaches come and go through towns like Las Cruces, alumni hardly recognize their teams. But the great ones seldom change.

It was during the Marmie era that the Sun Devils, wallowing in a lengthy losing streak to rival Arizona, switched one day in 1989 to all-gold uniforms - or was that yellow? It resulted in a humiliating 28-10 loss to the 'Cats. "They looked like a bunch of bananas," said UA linebacker Chris Singleton. "We were laughing on the sidelines." Under Marmie, styles continued to change and the Devils soon discarded gold and switched to maroon pants for road games. Yuck!

Historically, it wasn't that long ago that ASU looked and played, week-after-week, year-after-year, like Sun Devils. Like the Sun Devils the city grew up with, first under Dan Devine, then under Frank Kush. They never changed their appearance. At home: gold helmets, maroon shirts, gold pants. On the road: gold helmets, white shirts, gold pants. It's not that complicated. Arguing over it is irrelevant. It isn't a matter of taste. It's tradition we're talking about.

Just ask Kush. They built a statue for him. Or Charlie Taylor, J.D. Hill, Curley Culp, Danny White, Benny Malone or John Jefferson. Ask lesser known Devils like Ron Cosner, Harold Slemmer or Paul Ray Powell. They all played a bigger role in ASU history than any player in the last half decade.

"I can understand new coaches coming in and running their own show," says Powell, a former ASU defensive back from Eloy Santa Cruz who played baseball with the Los Angeles Dodgers. "But some things you never change. Like uniforms. There are high schools here which have better respect for tradition than Arizona State. Certain things you don't mess with. Once you put on the Sun Devil uniform, you're a Sun Devil for life."

School officials claim that ASU players were the ones who voted to change their attire for season-ending home games. The players? Who's running the ship? What have recent players in the ASU football program accomplished to make once proud fans anxious to buy a ticket and proud to wave the flag?

The sad truth is this: In the past 14 years, Arizona State has had only two seasons with more than six wins in a sport the school and community once hung its hat on. But more has gone south than the uniforms. Still, if you can't play the part, at least look it. Dirk, do all of us a big favor. Especially the hundreds of former Sun Devil players who care.

Burn those maroon pants!

Hamilton running back Tramell McGill, one of two sophomores in the Huskies' backfield last year, fights for yardage against Chandler High (Ralph Fresno/The Tribune).

Hamilton Wants What Lions Have

The Mesa Public Schools, with their large enrollments and strong junior high feeding systems, continue to dominate the 5A football playoffs. Last year was no exception.

The outcome of the state title game, won 13-10 by Red Mountain over Chandler Hamilton, seemed to surprise everybody but the Lions. For the second straight year, Jim Jones and his staff put it all together. On consecutive weeks the Lions beat Westview 56-12, Brophy Prep 27-14, Scottsdale Horizon 30-17, and Hamilton in the finals.

The title game, played before 10,880 fans at Sun Devil Stadium in Tempe, brought to seven the number of state crowns worn by Mesa schools in the past 10 years. Red Mountain joined rival Mountain View as the only Mesa schools to win back-to-back crowns. In fact, since the A.I.A. playoff format was established in 1959, no 5A school has won three-straight. For this reason look for a new champion in December.

As strong as several Mesa schools look, the changing landscape of high school football should make for an interesting season. The region continues to be stocked with quality teams, outstanding players and coaches, plus another flood of college recruiters raiding the area.

How have things changed? Both pre-season picks, Hamilton in Class 5A and Goodyear Millennium in 4A (see 4A preview), didn't exist five years ago. In fact, for the first time in history, six new schools, five public (Chandler Basha, Goodyear Desert Edge, Glendale Day O'Connor, Gilbert Desert Ridge, Tolleson La Joya) and one private (Scottsdale Notre Dame), open this fall.

But in 5A the team to beat is Hamilton, which stubbed its toe only twice last year. In five short seasons, John Wrenn's forces have been impressive. Starting with a patched up independent schedule in 1998, the Huskies have gone 7-2, 10-2, 11-1 and 12-2, in that order. In 19 years in the business (15 in Illinois), Wrenn has won 80% of his games.

Seldom does a state champion in 5A start four sophomores in the title game. Red Mountain didn't. Hamilton tried it, with running backs Tramell McGill and Myro Davis, plus linebacker Adam Vincent and defensive end David Smith. It almost worked. The fact that all four are back is bad news for the rest of the field. Still, replacing all-state quarterback Joey Vincent will be the key. But this time around the Huskies' defense looks bigger, faster and better than ever. That's bad news too.

Always strong schools like Mountain View and Desert Vista, both with coaching changes, plus usual powers like Brophy Prep, Peoria and Trevor Browne will always be in the hunt. The race usually goes to the swift.

5A FIESTA REGION

1. Chandler Hamilton (12-2)
2. Gilbert (8-4)
3. Chandler (7-3)
4. Gilbert Mesquite (5-5)
5. Yuma Kofa (5-5)
6. Gilbert Highland (2-8)

The young Huskies almost did it.

Hamilton, with 12 underclassmen in the starting lineup, dropped a 13-10 heart-breaker to Mesa Red Mountain in the 5A finals. If the injury bug stays away, look for John Wrenn's club to be in the hunt again. The running game and overall defense look solid. Both running backs, juniors Trammel McGill (5-11, 180, 4.6) and Myrio Davis (6-2, 195, 4.5), are back. McGill gained 857 yards on 137 carries and scored 16 touchdowns. His longest run from scrimmage was 85 yards. Davis, who could be a good receiver, managed 462 yards on 79 carries. Hamilton is loaded at the skill positions, especially on defense. Davis also starts at safety, with Daniel Marshall (6-1, 175) and Alex Thompson (5-8, 170) on the corners. Marshall is a 22-foot, 9-inch long jumper. Thompson, the quickest Husky with 4.4 speed, gets a look at wideout. He didn't catch a pass last year. Look for that to change. Jeff Draayer (5-11, 190), Mike McDonald (5-10, 200) and junior Adam Vincent (6-2, 215) start at line-backer. Junior Dave Smith (6-3, 238) returns at defensive end. Young Brandon Robertson, only 5-10, 175, started some at linebacker as a sophomore. He's small but quick and tough. Michael Papa (6-1, 225) started at tackle. The offense starts with Dustin Forshee (6-6, 300), one of the biggest and best centers in the region. Tackle Eric Pedersen (6-2, 220) is a good one. Look for Jared Horine (6-0, 190) to start at quarterback. The former tight end turned signal caller is a good athlete with a strong arm. Junior Tyler Workman (6-3, 175) is the Huskies' kicker. "We had a great season," says Wrenn, who is 172-42-0 in Illinois and Arizona. "We should be better this year."

Gilbert, last year's preseason favorite, saw its dream of a state title end in the quarterfinals, a 23-22 stunner to Horizon. "It was very disappointing," says veteran coach Jesse Parker. "I thought we had an excellent chance to win it all. We find it hard to fathom how we lost that game." His Tigers are inexperienced at several key positions, but good size and a sound kicking game give them a boost. In senior Mike Braunstein (5-9, 165), GHS has one of the best kickers in the state. He'll handle all punting and place kicking, with a 54-yarder to his credit against Chandler. He also plays wide receiver. With Braunstein, tackle Mike Moffitt (6-3, 250) and linebacker Strider Farnsworth (5-10, 170), Parker has three quality seniors to build around. Farnsworth also plays full-back. Other quality seniors include quarterback Billy Curdie (6-0, 170), tackle Chris Johnson (6-3, 240), tackle Jerrett Burman (6-2, 230), guard Trey Colburn (6-2, 200), guard Skyler Nelson (5-11, 190), tight end Jared Smith (6-2, 210), wideout Adam Gomez (5-10, 170) and halfback Andrew Holt (5-9, 170), to list a few. Look for juniors Brian and Tyson Bailey to contribute. "The kids are eager," adds Parker. "They have a good attitude. We should have a good team without much depth."

The same goes for Chandler, where Jim Ewan returns only 15 players from a 7-3 club which missed the playoffs by one game. "Last year's seniors did a great job of buying into what we are trying to build," says the second-year CHS coach, who earlier in his career won a 3A state championship at Eloy Santa Cruz. "They did a good job of setting the tone." But there's a problem. Seven defenders (four all-conference selections) graduated. On the positive side, Ewan returns two of the fastest, most talented two-way players in the region: Josh Jordan and Darius Cade. Jordan (5-8, 150), a two-time state long jump champ with 4.5 speed, caught 40 passes for 972 yards and 12 touchdowns. His 24.3 yards per catch led the state. During a 35-14 win over South Mountain, Jordan caught six passes for a school record 227 yards and three touchdowns. His 84 and 82-yard scoring receptions were also records. Against Mesquite he caught five passes for 114 yards and two scores, and intercepted a pass on defense. He caught four passes for 123 yards against Phoenix Central. His 24-foot, 3-inch long jump at the Great Southwest Track & Field Classic was one of the best in the nation. Cade (5-8, 170, 4.6) gained 1,055 yards on

FIESTA REGION NOTEBOOK

This youngest of all Arizona 5A regions has three schools with less than 12 years of varsity competition: Hamilton, Mesquite and Highland. Hamilton's rise to the 2001 finals was the fourth fastest in 5A history, behind Westwood (1964), Mountain View (1978), and Desert Vista (1998), which reached the finals in their second and third years of varsity competition. COACHING: Gilbert mentor Jesse Parker has 265 wins, third most in state history. TRIVIA: Ironically, Gilbert was 8-0 and Class B (now 2A) state champs in its first year (1923) of varsity football, one year before Chandler fielded an organized team. Gilbert has won a state championship in every 11-man class except 5A. COLLEGE STARS: Current ASU defensive end Terrell Suggs, an all-Pac 10 selection, is a product of Hamilton High, where he was the 1999 player of the year as a running back. In the Huskies first year in 5A competition, Suggs gained 2,274 yards and scored 26 touchdowns. RECENT PROS: This region is so young that only Chandler High has produced recent NFL players, including St. Louis linebacker Adam Archuleta, and former San Francisco receiver Sanjay Beach. Former Wolves Gordon Rule (Green Bay Packers) and Eddie Wilson (K.C. Chiefs) add to Chandler's NFL collection.

182 carries and scored 11 times. Like Jordan, he plays in the secondary and started on the varsity as a sophomore. Another bright spot is the kicking game. Promising place kicker John Hedrick, a junior who was injured last year, is a dandy. The coaches are expecting big things from him. Two prospects at quarterback look promising: Juniors Derrick Richardson (5-11, 150) and Justin Thompson (6-4, 180). Thompson also plays tight end, while Richardson doubles at safety and wideout. No matter who starts, both will be on the field. Big Mike Goodman (6-1, 245) is the most experienced lineman. He's a two-way tackle. End Trent Updike (6-4, 220) is another starter. Sophomore Isaiah Jackson (6-0, 180) is a promising receiver/corner with good hands and speed. Wideout Greg Cochran saw playing time.

Mesquite's young program continues to improve under Rich Iverson, as the Wildcats batted .500 in their third year of varsity ball. "Our expectations are high," says Iverson. "We have the potential to challenge for the league crown. Last year we made big strides from the year before." Thirteen starters - seven on defense - return, including two of the best players in the Fiesta. Linebacker/fullback Jose Garcia (6-1, 215) is a dandy. He led the team in tackles and rushed for 513 yards at fullback. Offensively, the key player is Jake Stoltz (6-0, 175), a quarterback/safety with "big play" potential. Last year he completed 73 of 138 passes for 1,099 yards and 14 touchdowns. He was intercepted only four times, best among returning quarterbacks. During a 32-12 win over Mesa Skyline, Stoltz passed for 232 yards and three touchdowns. Josh Chalk, Kyle Kiger, Jeremy Fortenberry, Kevin Forsgren, Bret Kohl, Stephan Dean, Gerald Bryant, Jimmy Williams, Spencer Stowers and Tyler Stowers logged more playing time than any unit in the region. Cornerback Marcus Washington, a transfer from Mesa, gives Mesquite speed and depth in the secondary.

Coach Steve Casey at Yuma Kofa finally has the size, strength and speed to compete in the Fiesta, at least on paper. The Kings return 17 starters, backed up by a 7-2 JV unit. The key player is quarterback Kyle Curtis (5-9, 165), a junior who passed for 1,824 yards and 15 touchdowns for the varsity. Miniback Matt DeLaPena (5-5, 135, 4.6) gained 629 yards and scored six times. "We played well for a young, green team," says Casey. "But we couldn't run the ball last

All-region picks

Ten different schools from Maricopa County return at least five first or second team all-region picks from last year's 2001 campaign, with Camelback and Greenway leading the pack. The leaders:

Picks	School	Last Year	Conference
9	Phoenix Camelback	9-2	5A Metro Region
9	Phoenix Greenway	11-3	4A Desert Sky
6	Mesa Mountain View	11-1	5A East Valley
6	Glendale Ironwood	3-7	5A Northwest
6	Scottsdale Saguaro	12-1	4A East Sky
5	Tempe Desert Vista	9-3	5A Central
5	Tolleson Westview	7-4	5A Metro Southwest
5	Tolleson	6-6	4A West Valley
5	Phoenix Bourgade	6-5	2A Metro
5	Valley Christian	9-2	2A Metro

year and that killed us."

Up front the Kings are much bigger, starting with center Chad Curtis (5-10, 245) and tackle Bryan Nance (6-3, 285), plus a tough, quick nose guard in Jeff Smith (6-1, 245), who doubles at fullback. Overall, at least one dozen linemen tip the scales at 200-plus pounds, with juniors Sam Dombrose (6-2, 280), Aaron Allen (6-1, 277) and Andy Chaulk (6-1, 267) the biggest underclassmen. All three started. Safety Chris Bielke (6-1, 185), a wideout on offense, is one of Kofa's best athletes.

Biggest change at Highland is in the coaching staff, where first-year mentor Preston Jones replaces Mike Reardon, who resigned. Reardon was 24-19 in four years (his first three were playoff teams), including a Fiesta Region title in 1999. "We'll run the same offense and defense," says Jones, son of Red Mountain mentor Jim Jones. "We won't change much." One dozen players return and five started. David Watts (5-9, 165) gets the call at quarterback, with halfback Andrew Trejo (5-8, 215) and split end Jeff Vukobratovich (6-2, 185) his go-to-guys. Jabbar Harris (6-0, 230) and Greg Bledsoe (6-2, 205) give the Hawks two solid linemen. Opposing coaches liked the play of two-way tackle Drew Bozeman (6-3, 245). Last year two sophomores, halfback Erik Davies and linebacker Brady Conrad, cracked the varsity lineup.

5A DESERT VALLEY REGION

1. Phoenix Brophy Prep (8-4)
2. Phoenix St. Mary's (4-6)
3. North Canyon (6-4)
4. Scottsdale Horizon (11-2)
5. Paradise Valley (5-5)
6. Shadow Mountain (4-6)

Another good Brophy Prep season ended in the quarterfinals, 27-14 to state champ Red Mountain. That gave the Broncos 11 playoff appearances in the last 12 years, all under Tim Sanford. "This season will be a rebuilding year," says Sanford, 124-73-2 at the Central Avenue school. "We return only three starters." But those three are good ones. Wideout/safety Taber LeMarr (6-3, 185), one of the Broncos' best athletes, might move to quarterback (replacing Jeff Rush, a University of Wyoming signee). Tight end Justin Evans (6-3, 225), who doubles at linebacker, is a big target. Two-way back Uriah Marshall (5-11, 170, 4.5) is the quickest junior on the team. He started as a sophomore. Skill players Evan Gammage, B.J. Dennard, Mike Mattingly and Marshall make for a solid junior class. In fact, the junior varsity went 9-0 without them. If seniors Ryan Kessler, Matt Oliver, Ryan So, Ken Getsinger, Phil Rollins, Brian Sanford, Mike Freeland, Dustin Petty, Lance Racoma, Matt Russo, Jeff Denney, Landon Maguire and Thomas Joraanstad step up, Brophy could be right back in the playoff race. Joraanstad, a 130-pounder, is the Broncos' kicker. At 6-4, 260 pounds, junior Drew Hopkins is the biggest underclassman.

Although St. Mary's won only four games, the Knights played Horizon tough (17-14 loss), and beat good Mesquite, Paradise Valley and Shadow Mountain teams. With 21 returning lettermen, St. Mary's fans look for improvement in the won-loss column. Quarterback, a strong position at this school, is in the hands of promising junior Tyler Knobbe (6-1, 170), a second team all-league pick. With blocking from linemen like Justin Hickman (6-1, 240) and Jose Lucero (6-

phoenix football '02

0, 245), the running game looks solid with Nick Santa Cruz, E.J. Hooks and Gary Miller in the backfield. Those three two-way players join Brian Pacheco in the Knights' secondary. Last year against Mesquite, Pacheco scored on a 100-yard interception return, second longest in the school's history. "We have an experienced group," claims second-year coach John Rodriguez, a former St. Mary's quarterback. "That could make us a contender."

Competitive in every game. North Canyon was one win shy of a playoff ticket. With 14 starters - seven on each side of the ball - the Rattlers could be tougher. "We should be improved," warns

DESERT VALLEY NOTEBOOK

Outside the East Valley, this is the only region to break through with championship seasons in recent years. Gold trophies reside at St. Mary's and Horizon. St. Mary's, although younger than rival Brophy, is one of Arizona's winningest football schools, with 456 wins since 1938. Brophy's first football season was 1928.

COACHING: Brophy coach Tim Sanford was an all-state guard at St. Mary's, where his brother Jim is the athletic director. TRIVIA:

Brophy's original colors, green & white, now belong to St. Mary's. Brophy, which closed in 1935, reopened in the early '50s and switched to red. COLLEGE STARS: Current ASU receiver Shaun McDonald (see cover), an all-Pac-10 selection last year, was a former sprint champion at Shadow Mountain High. Other SMHS alum include baseball pitcher Curt Schilling, NBA guard Mike Bibby and Olympic swim champion Misty Hyman. RECENT PROS: Current Atlanta Falcons tackle Shawn Swayda is from Brophy Prep. Phoenix Cardinals tight end Steve Bush is from Paradise Valley. The 1993 Outland Trophy winner, Rob Waldrop, a Kansas City Chief draft pick, is from Horizon, along with tackle Ty Parten, another Chief. Guard Mike Malano (Minnesota Vikings), and recent Denver Broncos backup quarterback Jeff Lewis are also Horizon alum. St. Mary's grads Damon Pieri and Kevin Scott recently played for Carolina and Detroit respectively.

Jeff Bowen, whose young club won six games. "All our skill kids return." Four of the best players in the region wear Canyon's purple colors: two-way end Jason Horn (6-2, 235), fullback/linebacker Derrik Leija (5-8, 200) and junior linebacker Richard Ricketts (6-2, 205), who could start at quarterback. Each picked up their share of all-league votes. Wingback Adam Pacheco (5-10, 190) was an honorable mention pick. How experienced is Bowen's club? Jesse Brown, Kris Schlepp, Dan Crawley, Walt Conrad, John Opuroku, Mike MacKenzie, Laszlo Vandrasek and David Hernandez also started, some both ways. "We played a lot of young players," adds their coach.

Graduation took more than lots of good players at Horizon. Veteran coach Dough Shaffer also hung up his cleats. Shaffer's last team was a dandy, going 11-2 and falling to Red Mountain in the semis. His 1994 club beat St. Mary's in the 5A finals. In comes Keith Brown, who takes over after nine years, two state championships and a .833 winning percentage at 2A Phoenix Christian. "They graduated a lot of good seniors," says the new coach. "We have lots of inexperience, but lots of speed. We have to replace the whole line." Replacing linemen will be a big chore, but center Matt Frankenfield (6-1, 255) is a good start. Teammates Brian Hall (6-3, 285) and Matt Minter (6-3, 230) are up to the task. Halfback Justin Ounjian (6-0, 180), fullback/linebacker Rylan Nicol (6-0, 210), and safety Jon DeFreitas (5-9, 200) started in the semifinal loss to Red Mountain. Skill players like Pat Davis, Vince Flores and Andy Haas look solid. Trey Vineyard and Andrew Peloquin should battle for the quarterback job.

There's no lack of linemen at Paradise Valley, where third-year coach Don Yantis returns a solid group. Also, overall experience is a plus, starting with quarterback Ray Klucznik (6-0, 175), guard Will Certain (6-0, 245) and tight end Jamie Catlett (6-4, 220), all four-year varsity players. Junior Jaime Meraz (5-10, 180) is a solid linebacker. Little Adam Goldstein (5-5, 140) handles all the kicking. He didn't miss a boot, making every field goal (7) and extra point (23) attempt. Leroy Taylor (6-0, 180) and Mike Gwatkin (5-9, 165) are speedy receivers. Darren Lazenby (6-2, 220), James Fox (6-4, 235), Steve Carter (6-2, 215) and Mike Anderson (5-11, 220) form a solid front. "We won four of our first five games," adds Yantis. "Then injuries set it. Last year we had a great freshman class and some of them will contribute."

Shadow Mountain was better than its record, which read 4-6. But the Matadors took a big hit on graduation, and only 12 players return. Quarterback Kyle Meschnark (6-4, 195) is one and that's a plus. He was an honorable mention Desert Valley pick. Fullback Tasso Gicoudis (6-1, 210) is a three-year letter winner. Center Brett Quadlin (6-0, 200) is flanked by guard Matt Miller (6-0, 220), tackle Adam Melsek (6-4, 265) and tight end Josh Rogers (6-1, 210). Gicoudis and halfback Derek Runion (5-10, 185) should feel comfortable behind these guys. Brandon Helton is a capable receiver. Defensive end Kaliopasi Halatokoua, and linebackers Mike Shepard and Chris Stone have a big task ahead.

5A CENTRAL REGION

1. Tempe Desert Vista (9-3)
2. Tempe Marcos de Niza (6-3)
3. Tempe Corona del Sol (6-4)
4. Tempe Mountain Pointe (6-5)
5. Desert Mountain (1-9)

After a one year vacation from the playoffs, Desert Vista jumped back into the mix with a 9-3 season and a trip to the quarterfinals. Mountain View sent the Thunder packing with a 10-7 defeat. First-year coach Dan Hinds, a long-time assistant, greets 28 lettermen, including several of the top players in the region. Also, the JV unit crushed most opponents on way to a 9-0 season. Each play starts at quarterback, and Desert Vista is set with senior Wes Tanner (6-0, 196), a slick southpaw who passed for 985 yards and 12 touchdowns. Tight end Zach Miller (6-4, 220), a Super All-State pick as a sophomore, caught 28 passes for 495 yards and six TDs. He averaged 17.7 yards per catch. Tailback Jarett Sayas (5-11, 200), a first team 5A all-state back, rushed for 1,397 yards on 183 carries (7.6) and scored 20 times. During a 34-7 win over rival Mountain Pointe, Sayas gained 115 yards and scored three TDs, including a 101-yard return with a pass interception. Add sophomore Marcus Waugh (5-11, 200) to the backfield and the Thunder's running game is set. Throw in defensive back Brent Miller (6-4, 220), linebackers Mike Hale (6-2, 240) and T.J. Carlini (6-0, 180), along with tackles Danny Redding (6-0, 245) and Kamana Kauahi (6-1, 235), and Desert Vista has a title contender. Miller, who has already committed to Arizona State, is the older brother of Zach. In the summer Desert Vista's linemen won the Big Man Challenge at the University of Arizona. Competing against schools from Arizona and California, Redding, Kauahi, Russell Secor, Gino Cruse and Bryan Berman dominated the opposition.

Most of Marcos de Niza's starting lineup returns, but the key position to fill will be head coach, where veteran Tom Joseph left for the Mesa Mountain View job. The Padres won six times and missed

CENTRAL REGION NOTEBOOK

Desert Vista's state championship run in 1998 marked the third time a 5A school turned the trick in its second year of varsity play. Mesa Westwood pulled it off in 1964, Mountain View in 1978. Last year, every Central school but Desert Mountain had a winning record.

COACHING: Mountain Pointe veteran Karl Kiefer enters the '02 campaign with 288 wins, best in Arizona history. First-year Desert Vista coach Dan Hinds played for Kiefer at Tempe McClintock, and was the MVP of the 1980 state championship game as a wide receiver/defensive back.

TRIVIA: Kiefer and Corona del Sol head coach Gary Venturo both played at Arizona State. Kiefer, a tight end, was the Sun Devil's team captain in 1959, while Venturo was an all-WAC guard for A-State's unbeaten 1970 Peach Bowl champions.

RECENT PROS: Before Casa Grande bailed out of the league - joining the 5A South last year - the Cougars had three recent NFL alum: Current Detroit Lion fullback Stephen Trejo, and former players Anthony Edwards (Arizona Cardinals) and Randy Robbins (Denver Broncos). In 1996, Marcos de Niza grad Derek Price was a tight end for the Detroit Lions.

Big bodies

At least 11 players in the Phoenix metro area weigh in at 300-plus pounds, with 6-foot, 7-inch, 360-pound Justin McClaren of Trevor Browne the biggest. The region's largest players, based on coaches' reports:

the playoffs by one game. The skill positions look sound and the defense appears solid. Amir Bradford (5-11, 170), Scott Flanagan (5-10, 175), Javier Pacheco (5-11, 170), Jacob Sly (5-8, 150), Ryan Patterson (6-1, 175) and Bets Angulo (5-9, 165) make up a stingy, deep secondary. Anyone could start. Angulo and Zach Gutenson (5-11, 205) could compete at quarterback. Last year Angulo threw for 849 yards. Gutenson, who also plays linebacker, is an outstanding wrestler. So is Pacheco. Flanagan, an outstanding athlete, plays both ways and gained 742 yards and scored 10 TDs. He also returns kicks. With Esteban Bayona in the lineup, the Padres have one of the best kickers around, and one of the best soccer players in the state. In the trenches, Brett Palmer (6-3, 255), Tui Ofahulu (6-1, 245), Joaquin Ruiz (6-1, 255) and Matt Jones (6-2, 240) are tough. Palmer was an honorable mention all-region pick as a long snapper. Newcomer Matt Thompson (6-0, 225) could start at linebacker.

Corona del Sol, like several area schools, was one win shy of a playoff berth. With only 14 lettermen back, veteran coach Gary Venturo has a major rebuilding job. However, he won't have a problem at tackle, where all-region pick Mike Pollak (6-4, 280), one of the best around, returns for one more year. Pollak has a slew of big friends, including honorable mention all-region center Jake Bell (6-2, 210), tackle Beau Bandura (6-6, 240), and junior tackle Allen Smith (6-4, 330). Offensively, the receiving corps is set with tight end Scott Gurley (6-2, 200) and flanker Chris Palmer (5-9, 160). Gurley, a second team all-region pick, caught 18 passes for 300 yards (16.7) and three touchdowns. Palmer, who doubles in the secondary, caught 18 passes for 435 yards and another three scores. His 24.2 average yards per catch was one of the best in the Valley. Zach Griffin was an honorable mention pick at defensive back. He and Brett Nenaber will vie for the quarterback position. Seniors Henry Todd, Tyler Markichevich, Joshua Hossa, Tony Larrarte, Sean Sitton and Dale Scheufler logged playing time.

Karl Kiefer, whose overall coaching record (288-117-3) is one of the best in the Southwestern U.S.A., produced a playoff team for the 21st time in his career. Last year's Mountain Pointe club snuck into the playoffs with a 6-5 record, then bowed to Hamilton in the first round. Several key players return, including safety Shawn Cooper (6-1, 175), tackle Marcus Potter (5-11, 220), tight end Brandon Markland (6-1, 190), and linebackers Jon Heacock (6-2, 220) and Marcus Nunez (6-5, 220), who is only a junior. Markland caught only four passes, but averaged 15.8 yards per grab. Center Elliott White (6-1, 240), along with classmates Adam Ramsdale, Keith Richardson, Chris Benhoff, Rob Hale, Dan Belousek and Chris Poston, give the Pride senior leadership. Besides Nunez, the junior class could produce quarterback Chad Whittle, plus newcomers Kris Richardson and Dan Calvin, who could start.

Improvement is the battle cry at Desert Mountain, where the Wolves won only once. Coach Craig Cobley returns 22 players, plus several good prospects from the junior varsity. Best bet for post season honors goes to linebacker Zach Semler (6-1, 225), an all-region pick last year. Tailback Evan Elliott (5-11, 185), a four-year letterman, managed 416 yards on 93 carries (6.5) and scored six TDs. Wide receiver Rob Mowers (6-0, 175) was an all-region long snapper, a valuable position at any level. Matt Heus (6-4, 305) and Paul Carpenter (6-7, 275) are two of the biggest tackles in the region. Depth and a lack of overall team speed continues to be a concern.

5A NORTHWEST REGION

1. Glendale Ironwood (3-7)
2. Peoria (10-2)
3. Glendale Mountain Ridge (8-3)
4. Deer Valley (4-6)
5. Phoenix Goldwater (3-7)
6. Kingman (2-7)

Don't be mislead by Ironwood's record. The Eagles lost five games last year by less than six points. Chuck Esquivel's veteran club returns five of the top players in the Northwest Region, including tackle Justin Tyler (6-8, 305), a big-time college prospect. Overall, 29 lettermen return, including slick quarterback Jason Murrietta (6-2, 200), like Tyler an all-region pick. It was young Murrietta who completed 12 of 13 passes for 224 yards and a school record five touchdowns against Phoenix North two years ago. Besides Tyler and Murrietta, Ironwood returns tailback Aaron Lafitte,

NORTHWEST REGION NOTES

Since moving up to Class 5A in 1999, Peoria has a better winning mark (77%) than Doug Clapp's forces did in 4A (76%). The Panthers have won three consecutive region crowns. Only two schools from this new region, Peoria and Mountain Ridge, had winning records last year. COACHING: Clapp is the veteran, with a 147-43-6 record in 16 seasons, including 4A state titles in 1986, 1987, and a tie with Tucson Sahuaro in 1994. Clapp's winning percentage (.774) is the sixth best among active Phoenix metro coaches. TRIVIA: Peoria is the grandfather of this league, Mountain Ridge the baby. Peoria fielded a varsity team in 1923. Legendary Mesa coach Edgar "Mutt" Ford was a Peoria alum, and coached the Panthers between 1934-38. RECENT PROS: Former Peoria receiver Eric Guliford played with the Carolina Panthers, Minnesota Vikings and New Orleans Saints. Goldwater receiver Kevin Alexander played with the New York Giants.

linebacker James Conkling, tight end Corey Jenkins and guard Bailey Flynn, first or second team all-region picks. Wideouts Robert Trent and Lucas Schroedle were honorable mention. Murrietta, Conkling and Jenkins lettered as sophomores. "We're very optimistic about the caliber of athletes coming back," adds Esquivel, who enters his seventh season at the school.

Graduation ceremonies took away a great senior class at Peoria, where one dozen starters from an excellent 10-2 club picked up diplomas. The Panthers' near-perfect season ended in the quarterfinals, 38-34 to Chandler Hamilton. Since moving up to 5A in 1999, Doug Clapp's forces have won 77% of their games and three consecutive region titles. With line-backer Ammon Wolfley (6-2, 215) and wideout Tim Toone (5-11, 165) still on campus, Clapp has two of the best players on the westside. Wolfley led the team in almost every defensive category, including solo tackles (30), assists (70) and tackles for a loss (8). The speedy Toone caught 28 passes for 470 yards (16.8) and four TDs. Fullback James McCullom (5-11, 215) gained 548 yards on 58 carries (9.5) and scored seven times. Big Evan Becher (6-5, 240) might be one of the best tight ends in the region. As always, the Panthers are big in the trenches, with David Harrod (6-4, 250), Jerrell Brown (6-3, 280), James Paramo (6-2, 245), Mike Griffin (6-3, 260), Mike Newell (6-4, 215), Adam Johnson (6-0, 240), Jowanza Adonis (6-2, 260) and Josh Berry (6-3, 240) penciled in as starters. Chris Archuleta, Greg Hernandez, Ian Harris, Karl Mitchell and Terrell Landrum add depth.

The best 5A team not invited to the playoffs might have been Mountain Ridge. Steve Belles saw his veteran club drop a 39-33 heartbreaker to Peoria in early November to finish 8-3. His offense averaged close to 40 points per game. But graduation took a big toll. Still, look for solid line play, a quick backfield and good leadership at quarterback. Brad Western (6-2, 185), a senior with 4.7 speed and a good arm, takes over a quarterback. He's a good one. Halfback Eric Urbank (5-10, 180), an honorable mention all-region pick, looks for another good season. He'll be running behind a big, strong line, anchored by all-region guard Jason Perkins (6-3, 240), one of the best in the Valley. He joins center Mike Gibbs (6-0, 259), and tackles Trey Jones (6-2, 272), Rob Martinez (6-0, 270) and Jon Weeks (6-0, 260) to give the Mountain Lions a strong, veteran front wall. If skill players like Jeff Allen, Justin Balich, Ryan Dulaney, Chris Burford, Garrett Ellis, Brendan Duffy, Nick Bell, Nick Covey and Tim Ham step up, the Ridge will be in the hunt. Bell, Covey and Ham are sophomores. They open Sept. 13 at Tucson Sahuaro.

Back-to-back four-win seasons has Deer Valley looking for improvement, as the Sky Hawks return 22 squad members from a 4-6 campaign. By November, only one dozen seniors suited up, the least in the league. Three key players, wideout

Kyle Sharp (5-9, 165), cornerback Jason Vilar (5-8, 155) and linebacker Shawn McCabe (5-10, 195) return. Sharp was a second team all-region pick. Vilar and McCabe earned honorable mention. Three sophomores cracked the lineup last year: Kicker Nathan Derry, quarterback Travis Comer and tackle Josh Key. Ten interior linemen return who tip the scales at 200-plus pounds.

Dan Friedman, a former assistant at Horizon, takes over at Goldwater, where the Bulldogs have won just six games in four years. There's nowhere to go but up. The ranks look thin. Only 14 varsity players return. Veteran linebacker Jason Peterson (5-10, 205), who doubles at guard, might be the best bet for post-season honors. Other seniors who will be called upon for two-way duty include tackle/end Derrick Dillman (6-4, 245), fullback/linebacker Dustin Haynes (6-2, 225), and halfback/linebacker Josh Wilbur (5-11, 190). Three juniors, quarterback Nick Jones, wideout Mike Sawtelle and tight end Max Mahoney will get a chance to contribute.

5A EAST VALLEY REGION

1. Mesa Mountain View (11-1)
2. Mesa Red Mountain (13-1)
3. Mesa Westwood (3-6)
4. Mesa (4-6)
5. Mesa Dobson (6-4)
6. Mesa Skyline (1-9)

The circus surrounding the firing and hiring of a new coach at Mountain View is over, and it's back to business at the Mesa powerhouse. Tom Joseph, veteran mentor at Tempe Marcos de Niza, takes over the reins. He's greeted by 25 lettermen and a wealth of tradition. Ten starters, including six all-region picks, return from an 11-1 club which fell to Chandler Hamilton in the state semis. The big-play artist is wideout/kick returner Cody Malone (5-11, 180), grandson of former Mesa legend "Whizzer" White. Malone, a 10.75 sprinter in track, can do it all. He averaged 19.9 yards per catch, and during a 17-7 win over Mesa posted 132 yards on punt returns, including 67-yarder for a score. Defensive end Scott Steadman (6-2, 210), linebacker Bryce Hardy (5-10, 225), punter Mike Sparks (6-0, 170), place kicker Bronson Higham (5-10, 155), guard Logan Enos (5-9, 248), center Kellen Mills (6-3, 215), defensive back Robert Dahlk (5-11, 175), linebacker Taylor Walden (6-0, 205) and tackle Hunter Brady (6-3, 252) give Mountain View more key returning players than any squad in the region. Brady is the son of former Scottsdale Coronado quarterback Greg Brady, the 1976 Arizona Player of the Year. The quarterback position is unknown, but there's plenty of candidates. Golden Goodman, brother of former ASU quarterback Griffin Goodman, will be a junior. So will Max Germaine and Max Hall. Germaine's older brother Joe, a former Toro quarterback, plays today for the Kansas City Chiefs.

No 5A school in modern times has three-peated, and Red Mountain would like to change that. The Mountain Lions, coached by Jimmy Jones, are on a roll. Back-to-back state crowns has put them in an elite group. Since very few schools win championships without quality quarterbacks, the Lions are set. Slick signal caller Steve Smith (6-1, 200) completed 28 of 65 passes for 662 yards and seven touchdowns in the Lions' run-oriented offense. He passed for 279 yards and four TDs during a 56-12 playoff win over Westview. When carrying the ball, Smith gained 689 yards on 99 trips and scored six touchdowns. His longest run from scrimmage was 81 yards. Besides Smith, the Lions return three additional starters on offense: Center Chad Yates (6-1, 225), tackle Dana Price (6-4, 230) and tight end Josh Roos (6-3, 215), who averaged 20.2 yards per catch. On the defensive side of the ball, Jones has a stellar lineman in Aaron Fernandez, a 6-2, 240-pound junior who recorded six sacks. Price joins him at defensive end. Tackle Nathan Bateman (6-3, 250) and tight end Pat Dunn (6-3, 180) help give Red Mountain another top-notch line, one of the best in the region. Senior Roderick Jenkins saw action in the secondary. "It looks good again," says Jones. "But so do several other teams. We have several key players returning, but still have to deal with the added pressure of defending the title. We think we'll have one of our best lines."

Look for Westwood, state runnerup in 2000, to rebound from a three-win season. Coach Roger Suchomel returns 21 lettermen from a green team which battled most teams tough. "Hopefully we'll be a lot more competitive," says the Warriors' coach. Here's betting they will. Quarterback Ben Beavers (5-11, 170) returns. He completed 39 of 84 passes for 515 yards. Halfback Alexis Arrieta (5-9, 160) gained 359 yards on 74 carries. Fullback/linebacker Koa Kalama (5-10, 220), guard/linebacker Benito Becerra (5-11, 225) and tackle Matt Ochoa (6-1,

EAST VALLEY NOTEBOOK

No 5A school since 1959 has three-peated, so Red Mountain is bucking the odds. Only two Mesa schools, Mountain View and the Mountain Lions, have won back-to-back crowns. The granddaddy of the league, Mesa High, has won more games (588) than any team in Arizona history - high school or college. The 'Rabbits first played varsity ball in 1920. COACHING: This league produced former coaching legend Edgar "Mutt" Ford, of Mesa and Westwood fame. Ford, who is deceased, won 227 games before retiring in 1967. He was the 1960 National Coach of the Year. COLLEGE STARS: Too numerous to list, but current Washington State junior Sammy Moore was a star receiver at Westwood and Bakersfield (Ca.) Junior College. RECENT PROS: Mesa - Robert Holcombe (St. Louis), Vai Sikahema (Arizona); Mountain View - Joe Germaine (Kansas City), Todd Heap (Baltimore), Kurt Haws (Washington); Westwood - Travis Scott (St. Louis); Dobson - Toby Wright (St. Louis); Red Mountain - Brian Jennings (San Francisco).

220) were honorable mention all-region picks. Speedy LaRue Burley doubles at cornerback/receiver. Center Guffy Wright, tackle Wes Wright and wideout Jaren Parham started.

Mesa, with several returning all-region picks, hopes to rebound from its first losing season in 17 years. Coach Bill McKane, who has won 70% of his games, greets only 15 returning players. But two, linebacker Jarrett Stradling (5-10, 220) and guard Kit Merkley (6-0, 235), are top-notch. Stradling, one of the best in the region, teams with Matt Forkenbrock (6-0, 180), Preston Ashby (6-1, 190) and Ben Opfel (5-9, 190) to give the Jackrabbits a good collection of linebackers. In fact, Mesa's defense looks solid, with several returning players, including safety Tim Besch (6-1, 180). Offensively, center Russell Wright (6-1, 225) is back, along with tackle Ron Joao (6-4, 265) and wide receiver Jacob Richardson (6-0, 185), who could be switched to quarterback. Tafuna Vaingamalie, Andre Fernandez and Alfred Stratton make up the receiving corp. Look for juniors Akeen Jackson, Garrett

Stapley, Donal Rabon and Michael Moreno to contribute. "It was a tough year, with some close losses," says McKane. "Our numbers are down but we hope to bounce back."

It's looking better at Dobson. In Tom DeMassa's first year at the helm, the Mustangs won six games, the best finish in eight years. Overall, one dozen players return, including quarterback/safety Alex Hawthorne (6-2, 205), a two-year letter winner. He's the key player. Kyle Amsberry (5-11, 175), another safety, joins Hawthorne in the secondary. He can also play wide receiver. Fullback Lionel Vaionmunga (6-2, 220) doubles at defensive tackle. Guard Ty Wood (6-2, 225) is another two-way player. Last year's unit was senior dominated, so the coaching staff will take a hard look at incoming players from a good JV squad. Still, the Mustangs look like they're one year away from a playoff berth.

The road continues to look rocky for Skyline, where a senior-dominated squad mustered only one win. The Coyotes' offense functions around quarterback Jesse Hamblin (5-9, 165), a slick senior who can run and throw. Two-way back Jeremiah White (6-1, 170) and lineman Mitch King (5-11, 200) appear best bets for post-season honors. King is one of only five returning interior linemen with varsity experience.

2. Phoenix Maryvale (6-4)
3. South Mountain (4-6)
4. Phoenix Cesar Chavez (3-7)

5. Phoenix North (2-8)
6. Yuma Union (3-7)

At Camelback, the Spartans almost pulled it off. Their first playoff appearance in 12 years ended in a 26-21 first round loss to Scottsdale Horizon. The game could have gone either way. Second-year coach Daryl Phillips returns seven first team all-region picks, the most in the Valley. The Spartans' talent level is high. Look for all-state safety Eric Anderson (6-2, 205) to move to tailback. He'll replace the departed Marcus Broom, who gained 1,511 yards. Receiver/linebacker/basketball star Thomas Huff (6-4, 215), the state high hurdle champ at 14.3 seconds, is one of the region's best athletes. Defensive end Ivan Clark (6-3, 220) is one of the best linemen. He recorded 21 solo tackles and five sacks, second on the team to linebacker Jared Fagen, who recorded six. Fullback/linebacker Ronnie Phillips (5-11, 185) averaged 8.6 yards on only 30 carries, and led the team in solo tackles (67). He averaged 18.5 yards on three kickoff returns. Nick Baumann (6-0, 185) returns at quarterback, where he completed 53 of 120 passes for 1,151 yards and 10 touchdowns in his first varsity start. Little Jaime Esquivel booted 34 extra points and four field goals. Big Jacob Kormos (6-3, 275) looks like the Spartans' best offensive tackle. Defensive lineman Daniel McEvoy, cornerback Eric Hobson, and linebackers Nick Adams and John Verdugo logged playing valuable time.

Maryvale missed the playoffs, but finished with four straight wins to end on a high note. "We got rid of some attitude problems that turned our season for the better," says veteran Tom Bruney. "Team chemistry is not overrated." Good skill players and team speed is again a plus, but size and depth on the line is not. Two three-year starters, fullback/nose guard Dauntae Poole (5-9, 195) and two-way end Mark Baymon (6-0, 210), expect good years. Poole gained 808 yards. Quarterback Ray Rodriguez (5-11, 190) passed for 1,300 yards. Senior linebacker Dominic Armenta leads a young defense which includes junior safeties Brian Laswell and Richard Rivera. In fact, most of the returning key players reside on the defensive side of the ball, like William Parker, Morris Wooten, Eric Walker, Alonzo Akins, Tremayne Harris and Anthony Melvin. Alex Borja, a 6-0, 210-pound junior, is the Panthers' center.

Whoever replaces Cleveland Dansby at South Mountain faces 20 returning lettermen, including as usual, several talented skill players. Best of the lot is defensive back/kick returner Marsean Chestnut, a 5-9, 175-pound burner who can also play running back. But his future is in the secondary, or returning kicks, where he led the league. Cornerback Willie Ruiz (5-9, 160) and wideout Tyrice Thompson (6-4, 205) were all-region picks. Ruiz could take over at quarterback. Phil Jefferson saw action at safety. Corner Mike Jones, fullback Isaac Glass, and halfback John Hart should start. Hart, with 4.5 speed, is a junior. Ricky Smith and Cedric Mitchell are the only returning linemen. This is where the Jaguars are thin.

With its first varsity season under its belt, Cesar Chavez is better prepared for the upcoming campaign. The Champions, coached by Manny Acosta, return 24 lettermen, plus a bigger, more physical squad. "We should be better," says Acosta. "We had trouble adjusting to varsity competition early, but started playing better towards the end." With two-way lineman Tyreece Gilder (6-0, 215) in the lineup, Acosta has one of the best in the region. He starts at guard and defensive end. Senior Brendon Storms (6-1, 235), another two-way player, gives the school two solid defenders in the trenches. Senior leadership is evident at quarterback, too. Danny Dyster (5-11, 175) runs the Champions' I-formation. Three juniors, linebacker Michael Peraza, cornerback James Gibson and guard Jose Perez, start at key positions. Last year 10 sophomores logged playing time.

Sixteen experienced players, including all-region running back Breon Felix, should give North a boost. Look for the Mustangs to improve, with the running of Felix, a 5-11, 200-pound three-year letter winner. Last year, during a win over rival Central, Felix gained 250 yards on 26 carries and scored three times - the longest going 80 yards. He and classmate Israel Carrillo, a tight end/linebacker, were selected team co-captains as juniors. Center Dan Saldana (6-2, 240) and junior fullback William Horace were honorable mention all-region picks. Junior Ryan Flannery, one of 10 sophomores on the varsity last year, starts at guard and linebacker. Senior Rene Villela gets the call at quarterback.

5A METRO SOUTHWEST

1. Phoenix Trevor Browne (4-6)
2. Tolleson Westview (7-4)
3. Phoenix Alhambra (2-8)
4. Yuma Cibola (9-2)
5. Phoenix Central (1-9)
6. Phoenix Carl Hayden (0-10)

Back-to-back losing seasons has Trevor Browne hoping mad. Second-year head coach Phil Wooley returns 21 players, plus a collection of juniors-to-be from a good sophomore squad. "If we stay healthy and have no distractions, we should have a good year," claims the coach. The Bruins' running game is set. Senior Kamron Scroggins (6-0, 185), an all-region selection, gained 1,394 yards on 175 carries and scored 12 touchdowns. He caught 18 passes for 552 yards. Against Alhambra he rushed 13 times for an 18.9 average, gained 246 yards and scoring four TDs. His longest strike covered 98 yards. Besides Scroggins, cornerback Ralph Carrethers (5-9, 155) and linebacker Chris Florentin (6-1, 200) were first-time all-region. Carrethers deflected five passes and intercepted six. Florentin aided in 73 tackles. Defensive lineman Chris Razo (6-3, 220) had five sacks. Tight end Angel Browning (6-2, 220) and tackle Justin McClaren (6-7, 360) give the Bruins two more quality, experienced players. Junior Benny Banta (6-0, 180) could start at quarterback. Sean Dahley, Ray Green, Dave Webster, Edgar Gamez, Dean Riggs, Tino Garcia and Keegan Herring give Wooley's staff a good collection of skill players. Herring is only a sophomore.

Eighteen players, including four who earned post-season acclaim, return at Westview. George Martinez feels his team has a shot at a third consecutive

METRO REGION NOTEBOOK

No region in Arizona has sent more players into the college and professional ranks than the Phoenix Union School District, with now defunct Phoenix Union leading the charge. But the championship throne has eluded the district since 1981. Since the present day playoff format was established, South Mountain (1959), Central (1969/1972), Camelback (1974) and Trevor Browne (1981) have won titles.

COACHING: No coach in the district has more than nine years as the head man. The leader is Tom Bruney at Maryvale. The record for wins belongs to former Trevor Browne mentor Bill Milton, who won 206 games in 29 years with the Bruins. TRIVIA: Between 1913 and 1955, Phoenix Union won 25 state championships, a national record at the time. In Sept. of 1963, Union's enrollment reached its peak, with 6,320 students. Located at 7th Street & Van Buren, it closed in 1982.

COLLEGE STARS: A-State sophomore safety Jason Shivers, a former state sprint champ at South Mountain, was a first-team Sporting News Freshman All-American last year. RECENT league crown. The Knights own a 12-3 region mark in the past three years. Post-season honors came the way of linebackers Nick Crowe (6-2, 225) and Ron Tate (6-2, 220), plus wideout Kevin Lowery (6-1, 170) and safety Eddie Brown (5-10, 175), who will double at quarterback. Westview always throws the ball well, and this year Brown is the guy. Tailback Jarrell Davis (4.5), linebacker Devin Johnson (4.7) and cornerback Kevin Leandro (4.5) help give the Knights more speed than normal. Emmanuel Luna is a tough, experienced nose guard.

It's been 16 years since Alhambra has played in the post-season, and Frank Lantt would like to change that. "We will be young, with only eight seniors," says Lantt. "But we have great kids who will compete." Top junior on campus is half-back Rodney Overton (5-10, 160, 4.5), a burner who gained 1,200 yards, 197 on 26 carries during a 29-27 loss to region champ Westview. Not bad for a sophomore. James Randall (5-9, 160) gets the call at quarterback. He was an all-region defensive back. Linebacker Armando Rivas, along with linemen Dan Hernandez and Chaca Rojo, give the Lions senior leadership on defense. Tackle David Ross, at 6-2, 280-pounds, is the biggest of a good junior crop, including Josh James, Robin "Coco" Kane, Gary Metcalf, Shaun Peck and Orlando Suarez, to name a few.

Veteran signal caller Cody Peterson, like all good quarterbacks, is the main man at Yuma Cibola. The 6-0, 187-pound senior was one of the the key figures in the Raiders' climb to the playoffs. A tough kid, he can also play linebacker. But with only nine returning players, it might be hard for Lucky Arvizo and his staff to match last year's 9-win season. Fullback Michael Calderon was an honorable mention all-region pick. Calderon, plus both defensive ends, Jake Schroeder (6-1, 212) and Miguel Porchas (6-4, 240), are three-year varsity players. Joey Claborn looks like the Raiders' best pass catcher.

Phoenix Central, two years removed from the playoffs, should be much improved, with an offensive line averaging 250 pounds, plus quarterback Chris Rodgers, a promising sophomore. A speedy secondary gives the defense hope. Rodgers, at 6-3, 205-pounds, is one of the region's bright young prospects. Tailback Jacquez Hickman (5-10, 180, 4.4), one of the quickest players in the city, joins Nathan Batiste (5-10, 185) in the Bobcats' secondary. As two-way players they'll be busy. Big Kevin McClintock (6-0, 305) was an honorable mention all-region guard. Junior Diego Macario (6-2, 320) give the Bobcats two 300-pounders in the trenches. Still, depth is a major weakness.

For Carl Hayden to break into the win column, all-region picks like defensive back Justin Watson (5-9, 172) and tackle Juan Fernandez (5-8, 180) will need some help. Besides these two, quarterback Gabriel Valdenegro, halfback Cosme Chavez and tackle Rey Sandoval show promise. Overall, 15 underclassmen saw action. But depth is a problem here too. Only five Falcons tip the scales at 200-plus pounds.

Millennium New Power on Westside

The 2001 football campaign, like many before it, proved again that 4A football is not far behind 5A. If behind at all. In the summer all-star game, played last June in Casa Grande, the 4A schools flexed their muscles in a 21-11 win over the 5A schools. Larger-school fans and players got a taste of Mike Nixon, Sunnyslope's talented quarterback/safety/kicker turned professional baseball player.

In his last football game (maybe), Mike returned a fumble for a touchdown, scored on a short run, then intercepted a fourth quarter pass to seal the win. His performance earned him MVP honors, the most recent in a long list of accomplishments. Earlier he was drafted by the Los Angeles Dodgers in the third round of the professional baseball draft. He later signed. So much for a football scholarship to UCLA.

But the 4A school's win over its 5A counterparts (the first such format since 1961) was no surprise. In the past decade, 4A schools have sent every bit as many players into Division I schools - and eventually the National Football League - as the 5A schools. Since 1990, seven Arizona Players of the Year have come from the 4A ranks. Throughout the 2001 regular season, the best football team in Phoenix metro was arguably Scottsdale Saguaro. "Talent-wise there wasn't much difference," compares second-year McClintock coach Dick Baniszewski, who played and coached in 5A competition. "I don't recall many 5A schools with any better, or more physical players, than Saguaro."

And Saguaro didn't reach the 4A finals. Neither did Mike Nixon-led Sunnyslope. So much for good competition. Last fall Saguaro produced three D-I football signees - exactly three more than 5A state champ Red Mountain. The Sabercats graduated the state's best passing quarterback (Kellen Bradley / Arizona State), and the best interior lineman (Loren Howard / Northwestern). This fall the Scottsdale school, talent-loaded again, has arguably the best lineman (again) in senior Kyle Caldwell, son of former ASU lineman Bryan Caldwell. For the second year in a row the best running back in the Valley could reside on a 4A campus. Last year Tolleson's Marcus Thomas rushed for 2,070 yards and scored 25 touchdowns. In the 100-year-history of Phoenix football, only one other junior gained more.

It's no surprise that the new kid on the block, Millennium High in Goodyear, is a contender already. More college recruiters will soon be hanging out on the westside. Besides the usual strong teams at Agua Fria, Cactus and Tolleson, three new schools have popped up in the past 12 months. East Valley residents bound for summer vacation on the West Coast won't recognize the neighborhood.

And they're all 4A schools.

4A WEST VALLEY REGION

1. Goodyear Millennium (9-3)
2. Tolleson (6-6)
3. Agua Fria (7-4)
4. Buckeye (5-5)
5. Dysart (4-6)
6. Bullhead City Mohave (1-9)

Millennium, with a young lineup, won nine games and lost a gallant quarterfinal stand to Tucson Sunnyside, 21-15. It was a breakout year. But then the Tigers lost their coach when Ron Frank took a job in Texas. Offensive coordinator Chuck Horn takes over, and 17 experienced players return. "The key to our success will be how well our young people fill in at defense," says Horn. "We have to replace most of our front seven." The defending region champs return eight starters on offense, including running backs Taryll Galloway (1,360 yards, 11 TDs) and Chazz Miles (1,030 yards, 16 TDs). Not to be overlooked is quarterback Regan McCarthy (6-2, 165), who completed 147 passes for 1,062 yards and five scores. It marked the first time in state history that one school produced three 1,000-yard juniors. He's backed up by junior Tate Ford (5-10, 175), a three-year starter who plays safety. Galloway had nine 100-yard games, Miles seven. With 4.5 speed, Galloway's longest home run trot was 84 yards. Miles joins Ford, Colin Kelley and Kyle Oreshack in the Tigers' secondary. Alex Waddell, a 6-1, 250-pound tackle, and Brad Hardin, a 6-1, 225-pound linebacker, are three-year letter winners. Taylor Cantu (6-0, 190) returns at center. Millennium will get a good early-season test on Thursday, October 3, in a TV game at Scottsdale Coronado.

South of the I-10 freeway, Tolleson has region title hopes of its own. Dan Widmaier's young team wore out in the end, with more two-way players logging time than usual. With 20 returning lettermen that problem should be solved. The Wolverines look fast on both sides of the ball, and possess maybe the best back in the league, senior Marcus Thomas. The 6-1, 185-pound tailback gained 2,070 yards and scored 25 touchdowns. Fast (4.5) and durable, Thomas gained 299 yards on 41 carries and scored three times during a 38-22 loss to Millennium. He gained 274 yards against Dysart, 260 against Tempe and 203 vs Mohave. Quarterback Mark Spradlin (6-2, 210), the Wolverines' strong safety, passed for 1,000-plus yards. Linebacker Gabino Hinojosa (5-10, 210) and tackle Levi Brooks (6-4, 225) were all-region picks. Tight end Andrew Gill (6-3, 220) was honorable mention. Travis Ridge, Scott Christensen, Sam Gamez, George Pablo, Will Johnson, Aubrey St. Clair, Carlos Guerrero and kicker Kyle Sparks started at one time or another. Sparks, just a junior, has made 69 extra points so far. "Thomas, Spradlin, Hinojosa and Brooks were two-way starters for us," says Widmaier. "They never left the field. This year some new faces will give these guys a rest." The most impressive newcomer is Jermaine Turner, a 6-4, 240-pound junior who might see duty at fullback.

Agua Fria made its usual playoff trip, and won seven games in the process. The Owls return 22 lettermen, but few starters. Size on the line and good team speed (again) are strong points. Center Steve Ayala (6-2, 298), tackle Drew Hopkins (6-3, 268) and deep back Steve Cruz (5-11, 175) were all-region selections. Ernesto Contreras (6-2, 250), Francisco Del Real (6-0, 215) and Ernie Perez (6-3, 215) add beef to the line. Javier Tewksbury is a quality linebacker.

Junior Brad Goss gets the call at quarterback. "We are an unknown team," says second-year coach Kelly Epley. "But we will be fast."

At Buckeye, the Hawks were top-heavy with seniors, so veteran coach Rudy Pacheco has to regroup. Six starters return so all is not bleak. "We lost four games by eight points or less," claims Pacheco. Graduation almost wiped out the running game. Senior Nathan Bolden (6-0, 190) averaged 8.0 yards on only 25 carries. He caught 31 passes (a school record) for 418 yards. This year he'll be switched to quarterback. He also plays in the secondary. Tackle Jake Sanders (6-4, 285), guard Aaron Thomas (5-10, 215), linebacker Landon Young (6-1, 215) and cornerback Jacob Lugo (5-7, 150) all started. Last year, 10 different underclassmen tipped the scales at 200-plus pounds, with Sanders the biggest.

Dysart won four games and competed well in its first year in Class 4A. Two solid defenders, linebacker Tommy Kurth (6-1, 210) and tackle Jeremy Martin (5-10, 240), return. Backs Ryan Price and Jerry Lopez, along with guard Jose Cromer, earned honorable mention all-region votes. Kurth and Martin were second team picks. Junior Paul Martinez (6-1, 205) is the Demons' quarterback. He also plays linebacker. "We showed signs of improvement," claims head coach Robin Sexton. "But we still need to do much better in region play."

WEST VALLEY NOTEBOOK

Historically, the premier program in this region belongs to Agua Fria, which originally played 6-man football under the name Litchfield Park High. Only Agua Fria and Buckeye have won state championships. COACHING: The veteran here is long-time mentor Rudy Pacheco, current Buckeye coach who led Glendale Apollo to the 1985 finals against Phoenix St. Mary's. TRIVIA: Buckeye, nicknamed the Hawks, was originally the Wildcats, but was forced to change its mascot by the University of Arizona, who claimed all rights to the mascot name Wildcats. RECENT PROS: Agua Fria alum Randall McDaniel (Minnesota/Tampa Bay) is the most recent NFL alum from this school. Other great Owls include former Green Bay guard Bill Lueck, and Washington Redskin linebacker Rusty Tillman.

Excluding Chaparral and AJ, these schools have taken enrollment hits in recent years. Coronado, with 1,279 students last year, reportedly had 3,000-plus in 1976, the year the Dons won the 5A state championship. Arcadia, with five consecutive losing seasons, produced two nationally-ranked teams in the 1960s. COACHING: Chaparral's Ron Estabrook has won 80% of his games, best winning percentage ever in Scottsdale. District athletic director Joe Corte won over 100 games (142) at Scottsdale and Coronado, most ever in the city.

TRIVIA: Tempe's 42-35 win over Cactus in the 2001 quarterfinals was the Buffaloes' 400th win. THS is 400-306-27 since 1924. New Buff coach Mark Rhiner is a Tempe alum. COLLEGE STARS: Current ASU receiver/kick returner Justin Taplin was the 1996 state player of the year at Tempe. RECENT PROS: Saguaro leads this parade with defensive back Mike Brown (Chicago), tight end Jeremy Brigham (Oakland) and center Dale Hellestra (Dallas). Tempe halfback Darnell Autry (Philadelphia) was fourth in the 1995 Heisman Trophy balloting at Northwestern as a sophomore, when he rushed for 100-plus yards in every contest.

Tempe back sprints for 409 yards

Last year Tempe High's Maurice Smith, a 5-foot, 5-inch, 155-pound tailback, rushed for 409 yards during a 34-19 win over Coronado, the most ever by a Phoenix area back. The state's all-time best single game rushing leaders:

most of last season, saw their dream of a state ticket go up in smoke in the semifinals. In a rematch from an early-season clash, Tucson Sunnyside knocked them out 23-21, in one of the great upsets in Arizona 4A playoff history. However, at least half-a-dozen of the top players in the region wear Saguaro's black & gold again. In 6-3, 273-pound defensive end/fullback Kyle Caldwell, head coach Stuart Goldstein has one of the top prospects in the Valley. He's the son for former A-State star Bryan Caldwell, like his son a terrific defensive end. When called upon he averaged 7.2 yards on 49 carries. "We're sure going to miss him when he graduates," says his head coach. "He's a great leader." Tailback Chaz Bennett (6-1, 185) gained 638 yards on 94 carries and scored six times. He averaged 16.7 yards on 12 catches coming out of the backfield. Tight end Hunter Sims (6-3, 220) caught 18 passes for 264 yards and four scores. These guys were part of a region-leading offense which totaled 5,251 yards, best in the school's history. Defensively, the 'Cats look tough again, with Caldwell, all-region linebacker Christian Serena (6-1, 220), tackles Ryan Vroom (6-1, 245) and Davin Garrett (6-5, 265), along with safety Casey Swift (6-1, 185). Tackles Zach Ward (6-4, 240) and Rob Krummel (6-0, 220) contributed. "We'd sure like to make up for last year," adds Goldstein, who returns 21 players off that near-perfect club. The Cats' JV unit was unbeaten, and that's bad news for East Sky foes also.

Graduation took a toll on Chaparral's line, but Ron Estabrook returns a good collection of skill players. Last year the Firebirds, two-time defending state champs, saw their 28-game win streak halted in their opener with Sunnyslope. Over 20 players return, including a strong, talented junior class. Junior Darren Mougey (6-4, 210), an excellent safety, takes over at quarterback. He's a good athlete so that might work. Junior receiver John Peel (6-1, 175) averaged 20.2 yards per catch. He caught six passes for a school record 161 yards in a 24-0 win over state finalist Greenway. During a 54-14 rout of Apache Junction, linebacker Mac Brown went 97-yards with a pass interception. Juniors Kam Kranz, Brian Vifquain, Eric Singh and Dustin Kleven help paint a bright future for CHS football. Still, seniors like Mac and Rin Brown, Kevin and Carson Kelly, along with Pat Sandor, Ian Tharp and Udemo Udofia need to step to the plate. Young Ekom Udofia, a 6-1, 220-pound sophomore, is a promising two-way player.

Young Coronado lost a 38-30 play-off contest to rival Saguaro, sending the Dons home with a 6-5 finish. Not bad for a team with 20 underclassmen playing almost every game. Coach B.J. Pasquel hopes to see his team go deeper into the playoffs with halfbacks Grady Smith and Brett Anderson, linebacker Brett Babcock, tackle Adam McMahon and quarterback Louis Marson playing key roles. Smith gained 1,423 yards on 200 carries and scored 15 touchdowns. He rushed for 290 yards on 29 carries and scored four TDs against Arcadia; 207 yards on 17 carries and four scores vs Apache Junction. In 10 games Marson completed 81 passes for 1,153 yards and 10 scores. He's only a junior. At one time or another, as many as 15 underclassmen were on the field.

Tempe graduate Mark Rhiner, offensive coordinator at Mesquite the past two years, replaces Tim McBurney, who left to head the new program at Chandler Basha. Rhiner, like McBurney a Tempe alum, returns eight starters from the line, but few skill players. Two-way tackle Nick Uihia (6-4, 325), defensive ends Zarin Sells (6-4, 215) and Charles Cobbs (6-2, 220), guard Nick Arreola (5-11, 195), tight end Tye Meinen (6-0, 175), linebacker Tony Cuevas (5-10, 175), defensive back Rick Molina (5-10, 170) and tackle Ellery Tarazon (6-2, 190) started in the Buffaloes' 20-13 semifinal loss to Greenway. Erik Ehasz could get the call at quarterback. He and classmate Jarod Carroll are the Buffs' safeties.

It's a numbers game and Apache Junction is headed in the right direction. Coach Steve Neal welcomes the biggest senior class in years, plus several key players from a vastly improved offense. It's the defense which needs fixing. Quarterback Pat McNamara (6-0, 190) is the main guy. Last year he completed 183 of 311 passes (59%) for 1,888 yards and nine touchdowns. But he threw 20 interceptions. That needs to improve. He carried the ball for 280 net yards. Miniback Nick Neece (5-7, 145) gained 507 yards and scored five TDs. He and tackle Anthony Donlin (6-2, 280) were all-region second team selections. D.J. Boe, Richie Tabor and Luke Loya are key returning players who should help shore up a defense which gave up 383 points in 10 games.

At Arcadia, quarterback Jimmy Bevell appears to be the lone bright spot in a program which has hit the skids. Last year he completed 101 of 180 passes for 1,340 yards, 15 touchdowns and 13 interceptions. The Titans have won just 10 games in the last five years.

4A DESERT SKY REGION

1. Phoenix Greenway (11-3)

3. Lake Havasu (4-6)
4. Cactus Shadows (3-7)
5. Glendale Independence (1-9)
6. Phoenix Cortez (1-9)

Two season's ago seven sophomores broke into the varsity lineup at Greenway, and that talented group has made an impact. Quarterback David Henry (6-0, 165), tailback Brandon Halverson (5-9, 150), defensive back Sean Laidlaw (6-0, 170), center Josh Zierten (6-3, 210) and tight end Drew Martinez (5-11, 210) survived and are ready to make their senior campaign the best. That won't be easy. You can't get much better than last year, when Mike Brown's surprising forces reached the 4A finals. Tucson Sunnyside left them back & blue, 28-6. Henry is the key. A tough player (he plays safety and handles the Demons' kicking game). Last year he completed 95 of 203 passes for 1,747 yards and 18 touchdowns. He threw 12 interceptions. He gained 360 net yards rushing and scored an additional four TDs. During a 38-37 overtime win over Chaparral, he ran for two scores and threw one. Halverson, who also plays defense, rushed for 784 yards and scored six touchdowns. All-region tackle Ryan Anderson (6-4, 240) gives stability to a green line. Wideout Steve Hoffman, tackle Jeremy Polk, guard George Chekmeyan and safety Dustyn Contreras started at one time or another. "We should be good again," says Brown, who may win his 100th game this year. "We had a great run last year. But we didn't show up to play in the big one."

At Apollo, Ed Barnes returns a veteran backfield on both sides of the ball. The running game will be a driving force behind the Hawks' success. All-region back Toussaint Zolnierz (5-8, 165, 4.5), a good kick returner, Jayson Gaines, Jeremy Croomes and Ernie Solares will share the honors. Quarterback Nate Borques has the arm strength to do some damage. Up front, guard Sam Valdivia is the only returner. Sophomores Jayson Johnson (6-6, 260) and Justin Elzy (6-6, 330) look the part, but have little experience. Juniors Chris Meyers and Brad Webb played some. The return of three-year starter Shane Keffer (6-0, 185) at tight end will help Apollo's passing game. Linebacker Justin Vogel and guard Gil Drew will anchor the defense. "We need to win a few more region games and compete better with Greenway in order to make the playoffs," insists Barnes.

Gerry LaBelle is hoping the experience gained by last year's underclassmen will reap dividends at Cactus Shadows. "We scored a lot of points, but we gave up a lot more," says LaBelle, who is one win shy of 100 at the Cave Creek school. "Our defense was porous." The Falcons return three defensive backs, two linebackers and one full-time tackle. That player, 6-1, 230-pound senior Brandon Reeves, was a first team all-region pick. Chris Clarke will be called upon at quarterback. Jason Albera might play there too. Jared Smith, Casey Norris, Craig Cilliberti, Devin Steward and Max Besong will be counted on to improve the defense.

Kelley Moore, last year's Class 2A Coach of the Year at Morenci, takes over the struggling Independence program. He'll be the third Patriot head coach in three years. On both sides of the ball, Moore will have one key player to build with. Tight end Sam Pena (6-0, 195) and linebacker Isaac Reaves (6-1, 185) are probably the best players on campus. Both made first team all-region. No other Patriots even received votes. Linemen like Derick Feuti (6-2, 275) and Fernando DeLa Torre (5-10, 240) supply the beef. But with only 12 returning players, depth is a major concern. Only 23 players played varsity ball.

It doesn't look good at Cortez either. Brian Galbreath takes over a program which won only two games between the

Carver, A-State Star Warren Succumbs

What's in a name? That's a question the late Morrison Warren spent his whole life answering. Warren, who died last April at age 78 from complications following a stroke, saw more than his share of name changes.

He got his start at the Phoenix Colored School during the Great Depression. In those days, black students raised in Phoenix were not allowed to attend the city's pride and joy, Phoenix Union High School. The Colored School, located south of downtown on Grant Street, played an independent schedule in most sports, except track & field. The Monarchs, with their speed and skill, dominated that sport, winning five "small school" state championships between 1936 and 1942.

But by the end of World War II the Monarchs had a name change: George Washington Carver High. By then Warren was attending the up-and-coming college in Tempe, the Arizona State College Bulldogs. He joined the football team in 1946, becoming the second black player at the school. The first was teammate George Diggs. Warren played on the last ASC team to be called Bulldogs, and the first to be nicknamed Sun Devils.

Yes, Warren saw it all.

A former president of the Fiesta Bowl, Warren played in the same college backfield in 1947 with Mesa freshman Wilford "Whizzer" White. "He was a great guy and a great person," said White, when hearing of Warren's passing. Nicknamed "Dit," Warren and Diggs often faced racial discrimination during Border Conference contests, where "Jim Crow" laws in Texas prohibited blacks from staying in hotels with whites.

But when ASU refused to schedule teams who wouldn't allow every visiting player - no matter what color - to stay in the same hotel, things started to change for the better.

Warren, a retired professor at Arizona State, at one time was principal at Booker T. Washington Elementary School in Phoenix.

Warren got his start at Carver High, originally named The Phoenix Colored School.

DESERT SKY NOTEBOOK

For whatever reasons, coaching changes have wrecked havoc in this once stable region. In the past five years, the six member schools have had 13 different head coaches. Only Greenway reached the playoffs last year.

COACHING: Cactus Shadows mentor Gerry LaBelle is one win shy of 100 at the school. Greenway's Mike Brown is close behind. TRIVIA: Last year Greenway became the fifth school from the Glendale Union School District to play in the state 4A/5A finals. Sunnyslope (1970), Washington (1977), Moon Valley (1982/1986) and Apollo (1985) reached title games. RECENT PROS: San Francisco 49er tackle Frank Pollack (Greenway), San Diego Charger cornerback Brian Davis (Cortez).

varsity and JV teams. The sophomores' record was understandable, since 11 players were called up to the depleted varsity. One ray of hope is at linebacker, where the Colts have one of the best players in the league, 6-2, 190-pound junior Jerode Golden. He plays tight end on offense too.

5. Phoenix Thunderbird (6-4)
6. Phoenix Washington (2-8)

Look for Moon Valley to get after it. As young as the Rockets appear, Roger Britson has a playoff contender with size, speed and talent. "We lost three games in the last 10 seconds," says Britson, whose club missed the playoffs by one game. "We were close to getting over the hump." Defensive back Solomon Smart (6-0, 180), wide-out Chris Hosmer (6-5, 180) and quarterback Gabe Eliserio (6-0, 175) are three of the better seniors. Smart, with 4.5 speed, is a highly rated defender. Eliserio threw well in summer passing league games. Running back Joe Strayhand (6-0, 180), along with Smart, was a member of the Rockets' speedy (42.5) 400-meter relay team. Just a junior, Strayhand joins linebacker Andrew Pettas (6-5, 235), along with linemen Tom Gagliardi (6-5, 295), Joe Montoya (6-2, 310), Pete Wahlstrom (6-1, 240), Thomas Liaga (6-2, 315), Nick Spreir (6-4, 260) and Vince Rosato (6-3, 255) to give MV

SKYLINE REGION NOTEBOOK

A vastly improved Glendale team makes this region - from top to bottom - look solid. Moon Valley will suit up the biggest junior class in the city, with three 300-pounders. COACHING:

During its first 24 years of varsity football, Moon Valley had the same head coach, Earl "Tiny" Putman. Current Washington coach Steve Chisman is three wins shy of 100. TRIVIA: In 73 years of football, Glendale has produced just one undefeated team. In 1943, the state champs (9-0) were coached by Arizona Hall of Famer Edgar "Mutt" Ford.

RECENT PROS: McClintock leads the charge with Anthony Parker (Minnesota), Shaun Patterson (Green Bay), Jason Kyle (Seattle), Kenny Wheaton (Dallas) and John Tait (Kansas City); followed by Thunderbird guard Todd Kalls (Minnesota), Washington quarterback Mike Pagel (Cleveland), and Moon Valley quarterback Travis Brown (Buffalo).

one of the biggest and deepest junior classes around. In April, the coaches took 30 players to the National High School Power Lifting Championships in Oklahoma City, and won it.

In its first year of 4A competition, McClintock played 12 games. Scottsdale Saguario sent the Chargers home early with a 35-7 licking in the quarterfinals. Graduation took a toll. Biggest loss was tailback Randy Hill, who took his 2,330 yards and 36 touchdowns over to Arizona State. Although thin, a young, enthusiastic class returns, with two-way end Rotimmi Gipson (6-2, 225) and linebacker/fullback Brian Nohren (5-10, 185) head of the class. Both were all-Skyline picks. Safety Blake Davis (5-10, 165) was honorable mention. Quarterback/safety Brad Heet (6-1, 190) looked good in the summer. He's a good athlete. During a 77-14 win over Apache Junction he kicked nine extra points. Defensively, with Gipson and end Darryl Kennon (6-3, 228) in the lineup, the flanks are covered. The rest of the starters, Josh Haden, Matt Victory, Jason Henry, Rudy Fleming, Tanner Austin, Travis Kaahanui and Travis Miner, lack size but not heart.

A vastly improved Glendale team creeps closer to the playoffs. Still, it's a numbers game and head coach Mark

Smith hopes it picks up. Although the Cardinals won two come-from-behind games, the defense gave up 346 points. More points are in store with the return of QB Andrew Maya (6-1, 185) and tailback Jerry Vaughn (5-10, 183). Vaughn, who also plays safety, is the key. He's a strong, durable runner. He carried the ball 40 times in the Cactus Shadows game, a 23-20 Cardinal win, and 40 against Cortez. Vaughn, linebacker Shane Mackelprang (6-0, 174) and guard Frank Luevano (6-2, 240) earned post season acclaim. "With seven starters back on offense and eight on defense, experience is our best ally," claims Smith.

Sunnyslope's trip through the playoffs ended in a double-overtime loss to Phoenix Greenway, ending the season and career of four-year varsity star Mike Nixon. The state player of the year, who later signed with both UCLA and the Los Angeles Dodgers, gave it a gallant effort, but the Vikings fell three points short. Graduation all but cleaned out the locker room, as only four letter winners return. "We may take our lumps early, but our goal is to improve each week," says Dallas Hickman, who lost 24 seniors. "It will be a challenge." One player with experience is fullback/linebacker Ron Gosch (6-1, 205), a second team all-league selection. He's a good one. Gosch, Dan Matock, Steve Chad, Pat Harris and Matt Laire head a thin senior class. Dan Coffinger and Tyler Petersen will compete at quarterback. Zach Henderson, Andrew Johnston, Adrian Rocha, Jared Stuart, Roy Miller and Jorge Pina are juniors.

Close losses to Tempe and Moon Valley kept Thunderbird out of the playoffs. The defense recorded three shutouts and that could continue. Up from the sophomore ranks comes an unbeaten JV unit. Coach Gary Mauldin's varsity will be young, but fast. Running backs John Roush (6-1, 195), Mike Jana (5-10, 150) and Scott Jones (6-0, 150) have breakaway potential. But the quarterback job is up for grabs, with Brian Lowry and junior Bryan Wagner early leaders. Both lines are young and may rely on sophomores. That's not good news. Defensive end Anthony Arteca is a good run-stopper.

Last year Washington started five sophomores in a region dominated by senior talent. The results were predictable. Both the senior class and the defense look stronger. Defensive back Mike Giboney, and linebackers Cassidy and Cody Aschebrock were honorable mention all-Skyline selections. Senior lineman Garrison Sinclair is a good two-way performer. Mike Diamond, Gary Turner, Luis Montes and Kyle Petrovich are juniors who should start.

4A WELLS FARGO REGION

1. Sunrise Mountain (2-8)
2. Peoria Centennial (6-4)
3. Prescott (7-4)
4. Glendale Cactus (10-2)
5. Bradshaw Mountain (6-4)
6. Phoenix Pinnacle (1-9)

Look for Sunrise Mountain to bounce back into the playoff picture. Three seasons ago the Mustangs played one dozen games. Defense, with eight starters, is the strength. Casey Raptis (6-0, 210), Mike Chavez (6-0, 200), Ryan Stradleigh (6-2, 225), Justin Hedgecock (6-0, 190) and Marcus Beltramo (6-0, 200) give Sunrise the best crop of linebackers in the region. All but Raptis are seniors. Linemen Mike Robbins, Sean Heck, Sean Rosen and Shawn Parker form a solid front wall. Five players return on offense. Coach Jim Davis has quarterback Tommy McDonald and center Curtis Anderson to build around. McDonald is a junior. The Mustangs get a big early-season test. Their opener is on the road, against defending state champ Tucson Sunnyside.

A young, speedy team greets Richard Taylor at Centennial. But the strength of this unit is in the line. With senior Mikal Brewer (6-4, 275), the Coyotes have the best two-way tackle in the region. He's a good college prospect. The other tackle, senior Zac Nielsen (6-4, 260), is no slouch. Bill Edelman (6-1, 225) looks like the best lineman in the junior class. Cornerback Eddie Porto (5-9, 160, 4.5) was an all-region selection. Tailback Tensley Dickens (6-0, 200), who doubles at safety, carried the ball just 24 times, but averaged 9.0 yards per carry. Wideout Josh Fleck caught 13 passes for 11.9 yards per grab. "Our kids played hard and were in every game," says Taylor, whose team missed the playoffs by one game.

Successful and consistent. That's been Prescott for the past two years. Lou Beneitone's Badgers posted back-to-back 7-4 playoff seasons. In the first round of the tournament, Prescott went down with a fight. Tucson Sunnyside beat them in a 42-35 thriller. "It was disappointing, making the playoffs each year and losing the first game," says Beneitone. "But it has motivated our younger players." The Badgers graduated the best athlete in the league, and one of the best in the state. Super All-State safety Jason Pride picked up his diploma and signed a professional baseball contract with the Tampa Bay Devil Rays. He'll be hard to replace. But the return of junior quarterback Chris Parker (6-0, 170) is a plus. In eight games he threw for 1,450 yards and 14 touchdowns. He's also a good punter. Running backs Joe Martz, Will Puntney, Cole Bewley and Brandon Franklin form a solid backfield. Returning linemen Brian Hualde, Brian Hill, Stefan Stobbs and Andrew Jonovich will help on both sides of the ball. Senior Danny Huck doubles at wideout/defensive back.

Graduation all but wiped out the varsity lineup at Cactus, where the Cobras won 10 games and reached the quarterfinals. Tempe sent them packing with a 42-35 defeat. Only four starters return, led by senior tackle Seth Baker (6-5, 295), the next in a long line of good Cobra linemen. Center Thomas Christner (6-1, 243) also saw playing time. In the backfield, two good runners return. Senior Matt Koehler (5-11, 185) and junior Nigel Ricks (5-11, 170) make the running game click. They might be the best one-two punch in the league. Still, with so few starters returning, the Cobras' run of consistent playoff appearances might come to a halt.

After winning six games in the previous three years, Bradshaw Mountain won six last fall and almost made the playoffs. The success of Mike McMahon's squad this year depends upon the line play. His Bears look well stocked at the skill positions. Clayton Spedding, a 6-5, 220-pound two-way end, is the most impressive looking player in camp. Backs Reno Paccioni, Scott Rudolph, Chris Fessler, Cory Thomas, Tom Stivason and Taylor Schnepf will score some points. Joe Harrington and Nick Trevillian need to take care of the interior line.

It's first full senior class should give Pinnacle an added boost, and it might show in the won-loss column. Still, Jim Hepting will rely upon underclassmen to give the Pioneers' much needed depth. Running back Evan Boardman (5-8, 175), a good return man, joins line-backer Matt Russo (5-10, 190), tackle Chad Endfield (6-0, 245), center Steve Danner (5-10, 215) and wideout Brett Smith (6-1, 175) for one more varsity season. Junior quarterback Trent Walker (6-2, 195) is a two-year varsity starter. Juniors like tackle Ben Muth (6-4, 237), linebacker Sean Spellman (5-10, 205) and safety Ryan Pullinsi (5-10, 180) need to help shore up a defense which yielded 33.5 points per game.

WELLS FARGO NOTEBOOK

Prescott, the granddaddy of the league, and Pinnacle, the baby, started varsity football almost 100 years apart. Prescott played its first contest in 1908, the Pioneers in 2000. Since Cactus opened varsity play 25 years ago, the Cobras have won 70% of their games. TRIVIA: Prescott all-state safety Jason Pride, the '02 state baseball player of the year, was a third round draft pick by the Tampa Bay Devil Rays. RECENT PROS: Cactus holds the edge in this young league with graduates Ryan Christopherson, a former fullback with the Carolina Panthers, and recent ASU lineman Kyle Kosier, a 7th round pick of the San Francisco 49ers.

SMALL SCHOOL PREVIEW

NWCC Air Show Best Around

Not too long ago, a Phoenix Christian quarterback named Tim Rattay opened some eyes with a 40-touchdown, 2,646-yard passing season. He took those stats to Scottsdale Community College, then Louisiana Tech, where he broke more records than Elvis Presley. Today he's a backup quarterback for the San Francisco 49ers.

Arizona's small school ranks, Classes 3A/2A/1A, have produced more than their share of quality players, excellent coaches, college football prospects, and even pro stars. This year should be no different. Last fall, 2A Metro champ Valley Christian produced two D-I players, receiver/defensive back Quinton McCoy (Michigan), who was hurt during the playoffs, and tackle Jason Voss (Utah), a state shot put and discus champion.

Last fall Northwest Community Christian, located in north Phoenix, aired it out during a 7-4 campaign which saw the Crusaders reach the 2A playoffs, only to fall to a strong St.

Johns club in the quarterfinals. Here's betting NWCC will go farther. Especially with quarterback Ryan Hoffner and wide receiver Drew Bohannon still in pads. These two alone accounted for 2,297 yards and 39 touchdowns.

But the single best skill player in the 2A Metro is Bourgade Catholic tailback Quinton Bellamy (see cover), a three-year starter who has played half the positions on the field. In Bellamy, veteran coach Pat Lavin has a real home run threat. He was the Metro Region's Offensive Player of the Year as a junior.

If an all-time Arizona 2A squad was selected, 75% of the club would be players who later played in the National Football League, or the CFL. And this from schools with enrollment figures smaller than senior classes at Mesa schools.

2A METRO REGION

1. Northwest Christian (7-4)
2. Bourgade Catholic (6-5)

3. Valley Christian (9-2)
4. Phoenix Christian (11-3)
5. Arizona Lutheran (4-5)
6. Scottsdale Christian (1-7-1)
7. Valley Lutheran (1-7)

There's no doubt which team has the best small school passing attack in town. At Northwest Community Christian, 29 players from a high scoring playoff team return, including all-state signal caller Ryan Hoffner (6-3, 175), and wideout Drew Bohannon (5-11, 170). Only eight seniors lettered. With 4.5 speed, Bohannon is the quickest player on the Crusaders' roster, and one of the best skill players in the league. Last year he caught 27 passes for 477 yards and 10 touchdowns. He rushed 37 times for 313 more yards and scored six TDs. He also scored on a punt return and a pass interception. Hoffner completed 76 passes for 1,240 yards and 21 scores. Like Hoffner and Bohannon, tackle Cameron Butler (6-3, 255) was an all-region selection - on both sides of the ball.

Linebacker/receiver Matt Haney was honorable mention. Still, linemen like Matt Keith, Alan Moorhead, Dough Seitzberg, Victor Sung and Josh Johnson will be key players. If they get the job done, points will be scored. Johnson is a 240-pound junior. Underclassmen like Steve Harper, Wilson Millard, Tom Priest and Kyle Young should contribute. "Last year was an excellent season for Crusader football," says first-year coach Derek Wahlstrom, a former player at NWCC. "We were in every game. We believe we can make a dent in the playoffs."

At Bourgade Catholic, veteran coach Pat Lavin, slowly but surely, is piecing it together. This might be his best team since arriving four years ago. One thing for sure: Quinton Bellamy is the best back he's had. The 5-11, 195-pound senior, a first-team 2A all-state pick on both sides of the ball (see all-state charts), has all the moves. With 4.6 speed he gained 1,216 yards and scored 17 touchdowns. He gained 212 yards against Scottsdale Christian, 206 yards vs Canyon State Academy. Unfortunately for the Eagles, Bellamy was injured and missed both of the school's playoff games. So did speedy wideout/defensive back Steve Ramirez, who was also banged up. Without them, Bourgade still managed to win its first playoff game in years, 25-14 over Antelope. "We should have a good team if those two stay healthy," says Lavin. "Plus we return our quarterback, who was a sophomore last year." Chase Finney is the QB, and the offense clicks when he's in the game. Besides Ramirez, senior Luis Arias is a capable receiver. Big Josh Gile (6-0, 205) is the tight end. Up front, the Eagles look solid with Josh Johnson (6-1, 240), Vince Canez (6-3, 265), Joe Pappas (5-11, 190) and Mike De La Torre (5-10, 195).

Although two of the best players in the league (Quinton McCoy and Jason Voss) picked up diplomas and headed off to college, Valley Christian's cupboard isn't bare. Coach Sean Loomer returns 13 lettermen from a 9-2 club which lost to both injuries and Thatcher in the playoffs. Defensive back Paul Hardiman (5-10, 165) was an all-Metro pick. As a receiver he averaged 16.4 yards per catch. Split end Andrew Majesty (6-4, 180) was the team leader, averaging 19.4 yards on 21 catches. Rufus Tillman (6-2, 225) doubles at fullback/linebacker. He averaged 8.7 yards per carry in a limited role. So did halfback Eric Fraley (6-0, 185), who averaged 31.5 yards punting the ball. Jarod Kredit and Matt Kuiper will have to pull a lot of weight on the line. Brian Langhoff, a 6-3, 185-pound junior, takes over at quarterback.

A tough, exciting schedule, plus a gifted senior class made for a good season at Phoenix Christian. The Cougars, always a contender, climbed all the way to the finals. Thatcher ended their season at 11-3 with a 35-26 thumping. The other losses came against Metro champ Valley Christian, and out-of-state foe Horizon Christian in San Diego. Against Thatcher, seventeen seniors played their last game, including veteran coach Keith Brown, who left to coach at Scottsdale Horizon. In steps Jim Rattay, former head coach at Tempe Desert Vista. Twenty varsity players return, so this cupboard isn't bare either. Defensive end Luke Bevans (6-3, 190) and tackle Brandon Winter (6-3, 265) landed all-Metro second team honors. Bevans can also play quarterback, and Winter can play center. Mike Bias (6-0, 230) is a good two-way lineman. Who knows, but junior Geoff Burns (5-11, 160), another two-way player, might step in at quarterback.

Arizona Lutheran has more depth than usual, plus a solid senior class. If Doug Meyer's crew gets stronger in the offseason, the Coyotes might make a playoff run. Thirteen players return, including two all-region picks: Linebacker Gavin Guzman (6-1, 225) and halfback Andy Schroeder (6-0, 165), who is only a junior. The skill positions are set with the likes of Jake Novy, Reed Chandler, Jeff Schad and Jordan Washington. But to compete for a league crown, linemen like Jason Salzwedel, Jon Rakos, Brent Knudsen and Nathan Caulk need to turn it up a notch.

Improvement is the battle cry at Scottsdale Christian Academy. Second-year coach Larry Bandura started 11 freshmen and sophomores, and the result was a one-win season. "We had a lot of players get valuable playing time," says Bandura. "We're still young, but we're getting bigger and stronger." Still, for the Eagles to improve, the senior class needs to step forward. With Joseph Herrod (6-2, 200) in the lineup, SCA has the best tight end in the league. Another senior, quarterback John Gaynor (5-11, 160), is the key to the offense. Running backs Mike Wong and Brian Spencer, along with receiver Jeremiah Winship, have one more year to prove their worth. Junior John Mattney (5-11, 215) starts at center.

Valley Lutheran has nowhere to go but up. The Flames, winners of one game

2A METRO NOTEBOOK

Since 1984, schools from this region have played in eight state championship games. Phoenix Christian is the oldest football-playing school in the region, Valley Lutheran the youngest. The Cougars first played varsity ball in 1955, VL in 1999. The Cougars, coached at the time by Les Finger, were mythical 2A state champs in 1959 at 9-0. COACHING: With the arrival of Jim Rattay at PC, the region has a 200-game winner for the first time. Rattay-coached teams are 202-53-4 in Ohio and Arizona. TRIVIA: When current Bourgade mentor Pat Lavin coached at Agua Fria (1980-82), his star pupil was recent 14-year NFL veteran Randall McDaniel, an all-pro guard with the Minnesota Vikings. COLLEGE STARS: Washington State sophomore running back Jimmy Wilson was an all-state pick at Phoenix Christian. RECENT PROS: San Francisco 49er quarterback Tim Rattay (Phoenix Christian), and Tennessee Titan linebacker Armon Williams (Valley Christian).

each of the past three years, return only eight players from a senior-dominated lineup. Still, coach Josh Mitchell projects a better turnout, inexperienced as they may be. One player with good credentials is senior Mike Deme, a 5-8, 155-pound two-way player who earned all-region acclaim at linebacker. He's small but tough. With senior Tres Lillard returning, the Flames have two good linebackers. Senior Mike Evans gets the call at quarterback. Juniors Jon Fontes, Brandon Billaber and Bob Vaught should start. Last year VL won its first-ever Metro game, 28-6 over Canyon State Academy.

up, second-year coach Pete Wahlheim has a three-year varsity player. Still, McCarville and classmates like Adrian Hernandez and Jimmy Conner form a thin senior class. Danny Koestner, Neil Kurkhof, Barry Charters and Mike Sobczyk are juniors who could make a big impact. Seton might have the best junior class in the league.

Coolidge, a long-time football power, saw its dream of a state title go up in flames in the 3A finals, 58-8 to Blue Ridge. It was a senior dominated squad, so Carl Hernandez has to work with a real young group. Best of the bunch is junior halfback Elijah White (5-10, 180), a 1,000-yard runner with 4.5 speed. One of his best games came in the playoffs, during a 74-0 rout of Holbrook: 9 carries, 203 yards, 4 TDs. Teammate James Jefferies (5-10, 180) joins him in the backfield. Up front, the Bears' running game depends upon Cameron Bechtal, Taylor Randall and Devin Rutledge, good two-way linemen with varsity experience. Speed and good skill-position players can carry a team a long way.

If Queen Creek stays healthy, the Bulldogs might be the surprise of the league. Seventeen players, including lots of starters, return. The Dogs' season ended with a win over Seton Catholic. The senior class, led by all-region line-backer Marcus Lemieux, looks solid. Several big, strong players return, including fullback Lawrence Sanfillipo (6-0, 210), end Trent Underwood (6-2, 200), tackle Don Hines (6-1, 250), defensive end Preston Dees (6-1, 200) and tight end Pat Patterson (6-1, 210), to list a few. Two-way tackle Miles Payne (6-2, 230) is just a junior. Transfer Kendal Bryant could contribute at running back and safety. "We're optimistic," says second-year coach Curt LeBlanc, whose team opens with Coolidge. "The kids have bought into what we want to do."

Coach Jay Denton thinks his team fell short of expectations, but Eloy Santa Cruz started eight sophomores and made the playoffs. Payson ended their season at 6-4 in the first round, a 62-41 loss in the highest scoring 3A playoff game in Arizona history. Fullback/line-backer J.D. Denton (5-11, 195), the coach's son, has been a varsity member since his freshman year. He's just a junior. Gilbert Cervantes, Rene Ortega and Bobby Jones look like the best of a thin senior class. Juniors Marcos Ibanez, Rich Williams, Andy Trevino, Tony Espinoza, Josh Rivas, Chase Price and Martrail Harris all start. Sophomore Javier Villereal is a 250-pound two-way tackle.

Of the 20 lettermen returning at Globe, fullback Joe Brochu (5-10, 225), quarterback Talmage Hansen (6-0, 170), guard Sy Tomberlin (6-2, 205), tailback Robert Kieren (5-10, 205) and wideout Derek Marin (5-10, 150) are the most experienced. All five seniors played as sophomores. Mix in a decent number of juniors, and Roger Schenks' Tigers should be better. Junior Chet Huelskamp is a 6-3, 275-pound two-way lineman.

3A WEST REGION

1. Wickenburg (10-2)
2. Fountain Hills (6-4)
3. Higley (4-5)
4. Sedona Red Rock (1-8)
5. Camp Verde (3-6)
6. Chino Valley (0-9)

Under fifth-year coach Tom McGoldrick, Wickenburg gets better each year. The Wranglers, co-champs in the 3A West, won 10 games and reached the semifinals. Blue Ridge ended their campaign with a 28-0 defeat. "We should be a contender again," says McGoldrick, whose teams have won 28 games in the past three years. "We'll be faster."

3A SOUTH NOTEBOOK

The demise of the Arizona Boys Ranch, now called Canyon State Academy, has made this race wide-open again. By far, the best rivalry among region foes belongs to Eloy and Coolidge, who have knocked heads since 1949. COACHING: The veteran of this league is Jay Denton at Santa Cruz, who has won over 100 games at the Eloy school, including a 3A state championship in 1978, and a 2A state crown in 1990. TRIVIA: Jay Denton's '78 champions featured future NFL defensive back Mossy Cade, and his '90 club featured future NFL defensive back Eddie Cade. RECENT PROS: Eloy leads the pack by a long shot, with recent players Eddie Cade (New England/Kansas City) and soon-to-be rookie Levi Jones of the Cincinnati Bengals.

The Orme School
is a pristine gathering place for teachers and students who share a passion for academic excellence, adventure, and personal challenge.

Tradition,

"The great thing about the athletic program at Orme is that everybody gets to play. Young men and women who have little or no prior athletic experience can end up playing in state level play-off games.

Experiences like these build a student's confidence, and that new-found confidence carries over into the classroom."

Bob Miller
Dean of Boys, Head Coach

Excellence,

"Bob Miller is not only an exceptional coach, he is an even better man. On almost any night of the week, you can find students, including myself, at his home getting help in math or enjoying Mrs. Miller's snacks. Through his efforts, I am realizing my dream of playing college football.

I have been very privileged to have had him as my coach and teacher, but especially as a friend."

3A WEST NOTEBOOK

The veteran football-playing school in this region is Wickenburg, which started up the sport in 1937, playing 6-man ball. Camp Verde began varsity play in 1948. COACHING: Easily, the veteran here is Sedona's Jim Cromartie, who coached in New Mexico and Oklahoma before oil was discovered. Cromartie also coached in Hobbs, N.M., a basketball-known school with a 15,000-seat football stadium. Higley's Jim Beall also coached in Oklahoma. TRIVIA: Before joining the 11-man ranks in 1953, Wickenburg won six state championships in 6-man football. Forty years ago this fall, Camp Verde won its first of two-straight 6-man crowns. RECENT PROS: Current Seattle Seahawk punter Jeff Feagles graduated from Phoenix Gerard, a former catholic school which is closed. The Redcoats once toiled in this 3A conference, and were state champions in 1974. Feagles played college football at Miami of Florida.

Unlike recent years, Wickenburg seems smaller, both size-wise and in numbers. But except for quarterback, all the backs return, starting with versatile Brian Herrington. The 5-10, 205-pound junior gained 781 yards on 173 carries and scored 11 touchdowns. He averaged 25 yards on kickoff returns, and handled the place kicking when called upon. He made two field goals. Stephen Bacon (5-9, 178), a two-way back, averaged 19 yards on kickoff returns and starts in the secondary. Fullback David Alexander (5-10, 215) adds to the Wranglers' potent running attack, if the passing game falters. Junior Jerid Lewis moves in at quarterback. Two-way starters Colin Morse, Brett Melendez, C.J. Hill and Kyle Harris should give Wickenburg an edge come playoff time. The Wranglers open the season against Chinle on Sept. 7 in the Round Valley Classic, one of four games played in the Springerville Dome, made famous recently during the Rodeo Fire.

Fountain Hills, loaded with underclassmen, saw its playoff ride last one game. The Falcons dropped a first round encounter to Wickenburg, 24-14. Two key seniors, center Erik Swanson (6-2, 240) and safety Jason Trulson (5-10, 180), are three-year letter winners. Thanks to the return of Swanson, the Falcons' line is solid. Shawn Kennedy (6-2) and Julio Rangel (6-3, 225) start at tackle. Cody McDonald (5-11, 200) is the tight end. Whoever starts at quarterback will have a good receiving corp in McDonald, Trulson and wideout Tim Wells. Logan Lewis is the best Falcon running back. All are seniors. Since the school's first varsity game in 1993, Jim Fairfield has been the only head coach.

In the school's first year, Higley's varsity won four games. The Knights, coached by veteran Jim Beall, played mostly underclassmen. "It was a good start," says Beall, who once won consecutive state championships at Snowflake. "We played a lot of youngsters and missed the playoffs by one game." Two-way lineman Josh Gordon (5-9, 200) was a first team all-region pick. Linebacker Chris Ammons (5-10, 180) and deep back Matt Belarde (6-0, 190), also seniors, were honorable mention. Overall, six key seniors return, including receiver Robbie Reyes, safety Billy Darland and guard Zack Byrd. Sophomore Buddy Lee was an all-region vote getter at linebacker. As a freshman, quarterback Matt Hamberg got his feet wet on the varsity, passing for 248 yards.

Johnny Cunningham, a three-year starter at quarterback, is the main man at Sedona Red Rock, where Jim Cromartie's forces hope to improve on last year's record. "We got hit early by injuries," says the veteran coach. "And when you have little depth that can be a problem." With Cunningham (6-0, 175), who also plays cornerback, the Scorpions have the makings of an improved backfield. Fullback Matt Wyatt (6-3, 205), tight end Robbie Wilkie (6-1, 195) and guard Chris Tolley (5-10, 185) are all experienced players. Junior cornerback Jeff Miner can fill in at quarterback if needed. Jeremy Woodson starts in the secondary. Depth and line play will be the key.

At Camp Verde, Luke Steege returns half his line and the entire backfield. In quarterback Chase Armstrong (5-11, 170), the Cowboys have a four-year varsity player. Halfback/safety David McDonald (6-0, 170) is a three-year letter winner. Among the veteran linemen, senior Ryan Moreno (5-11, 235) has the most experience. Junior wingback Charlie Baca, who doubles in the secondary, started as a sophomore.

3A EAST REGION

Predicted to finish near the bottom in the region, Payson's Longhorns ended up in the 3A quarterfinals. First-year coach Steve Saban watched his young squad play state champ Blue Ridge tough for three quarters, trailing 8-6. But the Yellowjackets prevailed, 29-6. Overall, the 'Horns averaged 32 points per game. A mixture of experienced seniors and some talented underclassmen make for a promising season. Veteran back/kick returner Waylon Pettet (5-10, 170), and sophomore linebacker Tyler Williams (5-8, 185), who is small, but tough enough to also play linebacker, are quality players. Senior Nate Perna (6-2, 180) will run the show at quarterback. His receiving corp includes tight end Mike Barr (6-5, 225) and wideout Jake Swartwood (6-2, 170), who is a junior. "We'll be young, but we might surprise some people again," says Saban. "If everybody works hard in the offseason, it takes care of itself."

2A NORTH CANYON REGION

The injury bug took a big bite out of

The Orme School, although the Warriors managed six wins. Several key players went down in the last three games, and playoff hopes went out the window. Veteran coach Bob Miller enters the 2002 campaign with 187 wins in his career. As always, the key players are seniors, with quarterback Evan Wilkenson, a 6-3, 200-pounder, taking the controls. Tight end Nick Tunnell might be Wilkenson's best target. Senior guard J.B. Kessler (5-9, 190) started. Underclassmen fill out most of the lineup, including center Billy Long, guard Claudeny Obas, receiver Jeremiah Watts, and tailback Michael Brooks, who is a sophomore. Senior Aaron Morton, a transfer from Phoenix Goldwater, should help. The 5-10, 205-pound fullback/linebacker gained 545 yards on 92 carries.

At Mayer, the Wildcats look to a junior quarterback to lead the way, and Kevin Passmore (5-11, 170) has a chance to be a four-year varsity letterman. Several veteran players are there for support, including receiver/safety Stephen Soriano (6-4, 185), fullback Joe Thompson (5-10, 190) and linebacker Randy McRoberts (6-1, 185). All three go both ways, as does Passmore, who plays in the secondary. Last year the Wildcats, who spent most of their life in 6-man/8-man competition, won four games, most ever in 2A ball. "We're getting brand new lights, and that's a big boost for our community," says second-year mentor Greg Davis. "We look to be a lot more stable."

2A COPPER REGION

Second-year coach Shawn Cluff looks for a better season at Florence, with better depth and experienced varsity players. Veteran end Mike Ulloa (6-2, 215) has seen a lot of varsity games. Roland Tipton (5-11, 190) doubles at fullback/linebacker, and is the Gophers' best scoring threat. The junior class will supply the varsity with at least two key players, quarterback Gabe Ramirez (5-11, 145), and two-way tackle Jake Carrasco (6-3, 23), both good athletes.

2A DESERT REGION

At Maricopa, Kelvin Liermann hopes to see improvement with 17 returning players and a better than normal collection of linemen. Also, the defense, with two key returners at linebacker, looks stronger. Junior guard/linebacker Jake Heun (6-1, 215) was an all-region pick as a sophomore. He's the Rams' top player. Seniors Adrian Garcia (5-9, 185), a tailback/linebacker, and center/tackle Foster Fensel (5-9, 220) are good bets for post-season honors. If they stay healthy.

1A SOUTH REGION

It was a bountiful season at Phoenix Day School for the Deaf. The Roadrunners won six games and played almost everybody tough. Coach Frank Amann lost six starters to graduation, and that's a big blow in 8-man ball. "We should be alright defensively," says Amann. "But we lost our entire backfield. We hope to break even." The 'Runners (6-3) finished second in the region to state champ St. David, then lost a 52-32 playoff game to Salome. Senior Joe Bradford (5-10, 190) is a veteran guard. He and Florence, which played its first varsity game in 1928, got its mascot name (Gophers) from its first head coach, Vince Killerlain. The former University of Minnesota graduate convinced his new school to name its mascot after Minnesota's. COACHING: One of the winningest all-time coaches from the 2A/3A ranks was former Wickenburg mentor Ralph Moran, who is deceased. Between 1953 and 1984, the former Jerome High star won 200 games, all at Wickenburg. COLLEGE STARS: Former Orme School all-state tailback Jabari Felton-Smith was a star cornerback/kick returner at Arizona Western College last fall. In 2000 Smith, a former state sprint champion, rushed for 2,434 yards and scored 44 touchdowns, both all-time Arizona 2A state records.

juniors John Clifton and Phil Moraga are the team's best blockers. John Fairfield, Pat Henry and Jovon Gray are the best skill players. Gray is only a sophomore.

5A SOUTHERN REGION

Tailback Tyrone James (6-2, 190) is the best bet at Casa Grande, where the Cougars won only once. He gained 713 yards and scored four times. Wideout Nathan Edwards caught six passes for 155 yards, while Marc Elias caught nine for 208. Junior Chris Mora is a 6-1, 230-pound two-way tackle.

Like Something Out of Fiction

Finally, after four embarrassing quarters, the horn went off, ending the 2001 Class 3A state championship game. The slaughter was over.

Blue Ridge of Lakeside, winner of eight of the last 10 state championships, won 58-8. In the state finals no less.

And the game was on TV.

It wasn't supposed to be that way. Coolidge, winner of several state championships of their own, was unbeaten and almost untested. Coach Carlo Hernandez's smooth running club had won 11 games in a row. Their size, they thought, would more than match up with Blue Ridge. Their speed was better, too.

So much for size and speed.

In big games, great "programs" beat good "teams" nine times out of 10. At any level. In any sport. That's just the way it is. There are few exceptions.

But Coolidge players should keep their chins up. Nothing to be ashamed of here. The rest of the 3A field - some probably laughing - was sitting in the stands, or living rooms drinking a beer. The Bears were on the playing field.

Coached by Paul Moro, who once upon a time attended Scottsdale Coronado High School, the Blue Ridge football program reads like something out of fiction:

In less than two decades, Moro has built the best "small school" football program in Arizona history. Better than anything ever seen at once powerful Eloy Santa Cruz, Snowflake, or once proud programs in Arizona's historic mining towns, like Bisbee, Douglas, Globe or Miami.

Since 1985, the Yellowjackets are 182-26-1 on the field, an .875 winning percentage. During that span they've won nine state championships, and 63 games in a row once - a state record and one of the longest in history. The 'Jackets have won 101 of their last 103 games, with the two losses being in the 1998 and 1999 state finals. Today, only one school in the country has a better winning percentage during that streak, De La Salle High of Concord, (Ca.), a private Bay Area school which has won 125 games in a row, a national record. Blue Ridge enters the 2002 campaign with a 26-game win streak.

"We have a lot of outstanding, hard-working assistant coaches," said Moro in January at a Phoenix sports banquet. "Our kids work hard all the time. They have bought into the system, and take great pride in it.

"Our fans are something else. You'd think you were at a college game. They show so early, tailgate, eat and have a great time. Our kids try not to disappoint them, if you know what I mean."

"But why do we win almost all the time?" asks Moro. "I'm not really sure. I can't answer that. I don't think anybody can. It just happens."

"Our fans are something else. You'd think you were at a college game. They show so early, tailgate, eat and have a great time. Our kids try not to disappoint them, if you know what I mean."

This summer, as Moro and his latest football edition prepare for the upcoming campaign, everything seems a little different. Everybody's glad the tragic June Rodeo Fire didn't burn down the school, or the whole town.

"They had to turn the water off on our school fields, so the grass will probably die," Moro told The Arizona Republic. "They said, 'We'll try to save it.' I said 'Save houses. Save trees. Don't worry about my field.'"

But when the season starts, opponents will worry about the field, the Blue Ridge mystique, and returning players like quarterback Alex Moro, the coach's son. Young Alex has passed for 52 career touchdowns and 3,470 yards and still has a dozen more games to play. He's 26-0 as a starter.

But so is everybody who wears that Purple & Gold uniform, or so it seems. Whatever and 0.

During the war-torn '40s the best high school football rivalry in the Southwest was born, pitting Phoenix Union against city foe North, played on Thanksgiving Day, before record crowds and near-perfect weather conditions.

By BARRY SOLLENBERGER

It was a made to order rivalry, and school board members could see it coming. In 1938, taxpayers voted to spend $800,000 on a new high school in northeast Phoenix. The vote helped relieve congestion at historic Phoenix Union High, whose enrollment had reached 5,219 students - largest of an high school west of the Mississippi River.

The new school, to be called North Phoenix High, opened one year later. By 1941, North was ready to play the mighty Coyotes, winners of 22 state championships, in the biggest and most popular sport in town - football.

For years the annually Thanksgiving Day contest, with Phoenix Union matched against the Phoenix Indian School, was the city's most colorful contest. It attracted more fans (sometimes 10,000) than college games between the University of Arizona and Arizona State. Turkey Day games, played throughout the U.S.A., were as popular in Arizona as they were anywhere. But the Coyotes-

"It was always a sellout, or so it seemed. Just riding the bus to the game was a big deal. It gave you chills to drive up to the stadium. It was one of the big events of the year, and playing on Turkey Day made it extra special."

Braves clash had become stale. With the birth of North, a made to order holiday game was inevitable.

And so was born one of the greatest high school football rivalries in the Southwest. Across the state, Thanksgiving Day games were popular. Bisbee vs Globe, Miami vs Douglas, Jerome vs Clarkdale, Safford vs Thatcher, or Tucson against Tucson Amphitheater, were hotly contested. But when it came to talent, crowd support, upsets and down-to-the-wire excitement, nothing could match the Phoenix Union-North High battles.

SWEET SIXTEEN

During its short time in history, only 16 games were played. The rivalry lasted many more years, with the last contest a 21-6 North win in 1980, one year before the Phoenix Union High School District - because of declining enrollment - closed down the Coyotes for good. But the first 16 were Thanksgiving afternoon tilts, played before sellout crowds and near-perfect weather conditions.

Before the Valley's population exploded after World War II, and before the birth of several new schools cut into the fan base, buying a ticket to a late November game at historic Montgomery Stadium was no easy task.

Between 1941, that memorable first contest, and the Turkey Day finale in 1956, the game became a stage for many of the Valley's all-time great high school coaches and legendary players. Coaches like Larry Rouble, John Black, Wendall "Pat" Patterson or Sam Winningham of Phoenix Union. Or Rolly Caldwell, Walt Ruth, Tom Black and Cecil Coleman at North. Rouble, who won only one Turkey Day game as Union's coach, was a former Stanford star who played in three consecutive Rose Bowls.

Not to be overlooked were assistant coaches, like Clare Van Hoorebeke, Bill

"I went to Arizona State to play college ball, and played in a smaller stadium ... And to give you an idea of the intensity of the game, three of my teammates broke bones against Phoenix."

Saunders, Martin "Pug" Marich, Thomas "Shanty" Hogan, Don Pace, Jim Stangland or Vern Wolfe, to name just a few.

Then there were the players. Teenagers playing a kids game before thousands of fans, mostly adults. Players like Frank Tarazan, Rudy Yabarra, Dave Goodwin, Ernest Walkup, Gene Brown, Bob Matock, James Black, Bob Jacobs, Quenton Aycock, Al Carr, George Greathouse or Delbert Hodge at Phoenix Union.

Or Howard Moore, Jim Nafziger, Frankie Miller, Jack Holland, Arnie Peterson, Boyd Clements, Kemper Marley, Gene Mitcham, Clyde Nielson, Kenny Aycock, George Flint, Eddie Mitchell, John Harper, Allen Sandell, Lloyd Aycock and Dallas Long at North, to list a few.

Perhaps Frank Armstrong, a little-known reserve on North's 1953 state championship team, remembers it best: "It was always a sellout, or so it seemed," recalls Armstrong, who made his living in Phoenix in the restaurant business. "Just riding the bus to the game was a big deal. It gave you the chills to drive up to the stadium. It was one of the big events of the year, and playing on Turkey Day made it extra special."

Yes, playing the biggest game of the year in Montgomery Stadium was an experience never to be forgotten. Adds Arnie Peterson, a future Arizona State back who completed 13 of 19 passes in the 1947 classic - before 17,000 fans - and scored both North touchdowns: "I went to Arizona State to play college ball, and played in a smaller stadium," laughs Peterson. "That stadium down there was bigger than Arizona State's. And to give you an idea of the intensity of the game, three of my teammates broke bones against Phoenix. There were no cheap shots. But the hitting was vicious. Everybody came to play. That's probably why the games were so close."

Peterson's teammate, all-state end Boyd Clements, later became a rival, at the University of Arizona. He got hurt in the '47 battle, but it didn't keep him out of the game.

"The game ended in damn a tie," recalls Clements from his home in Phoenix. "We played all day for a tie. I caught a pass once and broke my thumb when I fell. So later, I'm running a pass rout and Gene Brown, a great player for Phoenix, grabs my arm, the one with the broken thumb. He knew I was hurt. I tried to catch the ball, but I couldn't. On the way back to the huddle I told Brown 'If you try that again I'll clean your clock.' But nothing really happened. We knew all those guys. We were friends."

Yes, 16 times on Thanksgiving afternoon, thousands of fans, from all corners of Maricopa County, converged on downtown Phoenix to see the Coyotes and Mustangs fight it out:

1941: NORTH 20, PHOENIX 13

November brought a new, colorful chapter in Phoenix sports history, as 11,000 spectators showed for the first-ever meeting between the schools, played two weeks before Japan bombed Pearl Harbor. Little Rudy Ybarra put the Coyotes ahead with a spectacular 64-yard punt return, but three minutes later Frank Miller, who had punted the ball to Ybarra, paid him back with a 75-yard return of his own. After a bad Phoenix lateral was recovered by North's Perry Doyle, full-back Howard Moore scored from one-yard out, then kicked the conversion. North's Barney Coleman intercepted the Coyotes' last pass to secure the win.

1942: NORTH 26, PHOENIX 7

In one of the best years ever for Phoenix football, nationally-ranked Phoenix Union, a two-touchdown favorite, and North entered the game with near-perfect records. North suffered an earlier loss to Tucson. But nobody comprehended how good Rolly Caldwell's Mustangs were until they blasted the Coyotes 26-7, before 11,500 fans, the largest crowd ever to see a high school game in Arizona.

With the win, North players carried both Caldwell and the Luke Greenway Legion Trophy, symbolic of the city crown, off the field. The Wild Horses' bigger line prevailed. Halfback Jim Nafziger, who later played at Stanford, and triple-threat Tommy McGowen were unstoppable.

Earlier, Phoenix Union beat all three West Coast schools on its schedule: Bakersfield 13-7, Alhambra 18-0, and Long Beach Poly 13-6. Among North High victims were two Texas schools: El Paso 48-7, and El Paso Austin 47-7, along with Albuquerque, N.M. 20-0. Nafziger's best day was against Mesa, a four-touchdown night when he and the Mustangs gained 527 yards from scrimmage.

1943: NORTH 19, PHOENIX 0

The Wild Horses continued supremacy over talent-depleted Phoenix Union to

Mom liked ties

When North and Phoenix Union battled to consecutive ties in 1949-50, the parents of John and Tom Black, the Phoenix Union and North coaches, were happy again. They were the only ones. "My prayers were answered," said Alice Black after a 20-20 tie in 1950. "I prayed for a tie each year, and it happened."

One year earlier North, a two-touchdown favorite, saw its chance for a city and state crown go out the window with a 7-7 deadlock. "John must be happy," said Tom afterwards. "I know I'm not. I still think we have the best team in the state. It was a moral defeat for us. We wanted to win the game."

But mom didn't.

three consecutive games. The Coyotes lost several key lettermen from the previous year who were drafted. Plus the split with North started to show. Because of the war effort, Phoenix Union's games with San Bernardino and Alhambra of

1944: NORTH 12, PHOENIX 0

With KTAR-Radio broadcasting every play, and with a crowd of 10,000 on hand, North scored first and went on to win its fourth-straight tilt. The Coyotes staged three goal-line stands to keep the score respectable. "Jumpin" Jack Holland scored both touchdowns on short runs, and North's defense held Phoenix to minus yards. The city title ended in a three-way tie between North, Phoenix Union and St. Mary's. State-wide, nobody could contain nationally-ranked Tucson High, which steamrolled everybody on route to a perfect season.

1945: NORTH 7, PHOENIX 6

The war was over! Everybody was fired-up for Thanksgiving Day. But unfortunately for first-year Phoenix coach Francis Siegel, the Coyotes' headaches continued. Before the largest crowd (14,000) to witness a game in Arizona - high school or college - Leroy Shaw fired a 40-yard scoring strike to Adron Reichert, then booted a perfect extra point. The Coyotes fought back, scoring late in the second quarter when Floyd Rommel hit all-state end Ernest Walkup for a 29-yard score. But Gordon Gump's kick was blocked.

1946: PHOENIX 14, NORTH 0

Although Phoenix city football reached an all-time low talent-wise, 13,000 fans filed into downtown for this classic, finally won by the Coyotes. The teams won only three games between them, with North's sole win a 44-6 thumping of Phoenix Tech. The long drought ended for Phoenix Union, played before perfect weather conditions on a bright, sunny afternoon. The standout was Bob Hazelton, Phoenix quarterback. Tom Melton and Jim Reppert scored on two short runs.

For the first time, Phoenix Union got its name engraved on the stock of the Harper's Ferry Rifle, donated to the winner by C.B. Hicks. More than 90 years old, it was allegedly used in the siege of Atlanta during the Civil War.

1947: PHOENIX 13, NORTH 13

This game was played one week after North, a 13-point favorite, upset New Mexico state champ Albuquerque 27-20 in the most thrilling game of the season. On Thanksgiving, even though the game ended in a tie, the underdog Coyotes celebrated a moral victory. They carried first-year coach John Black off the field. "The kids really got out there and played ball," said Black, a former star at the University of Arizona. "And we got the best center in the state, Joe Propati." Propati and guard Roy Alba were the stars for Phoenix, while the North hero was Arnie Peterson, the Mustang's blonde halfback. Peterson completed 13 of 19 passes for 178 yards, plus rammed over for both North touchdowns.

Wrote Ben Foote of The Phoenix Gazette: "Not one of the 17,000 souls who put off a turkey dinner a few hours to witness the tie should be disappointed. The game lived up to its billing. The Coyotes played inspired ball, their best of the season."

"I gambled and we lost," said North mentor Walt Ruth, a former A-State star. "We lost one touchdown when a couple backs bumped heads on a reverse, and a couple on dropped passes."

Jim Reper, swift Coyote halfback, provided the biggest thrill with an 80-yard sprint down the east sidelines in the third period. But Ken Thompson's extra point kick sailed wide of its mark.

1948: PHOENIX 6, NORTH 0

Although the score was close there was no argument from any quarter after this one. Nationally-ranked Phoenix Union, which earlier beat California power Bakersfield 25-21, left no doubt that they were Arizona's best scholastic team. The Coyotes line held North to one-yard rushing. The game was played before an estimated 16,000 fans. For the first time since the rivalry started, the Pack had undisputed possession of the Luke-Greenway American Legion Trophy. But the Mustangs played their best game of the season, holding the Coyotes vaunted express to a scoreless tie at halftime. Big Roy Stegall, Phoenix Union halfback, outshined teammate Gene Brown, and scored the games only touchdown. "I told the guys Tuesday that I'd be darn glad to win by one point," said winning coach John Black afterwards. "I would have settled for that after the game was five minutes old."

The Pack's best team in years lost only once, 24-19 to San Diego High. But during a near-perfect season they had impressive wins over San Bernardino, Tucson, Phoenix St. Mary's, and Bakersfield. After the Turkey Day clash, all-state tackle Bob Matock was selected to play for the West in the United States High School All-Star Game in Honolulu on Christmas.

1949: PHOENIX 7, NORTH 7

The stadium filled up 30 minutes before kickoff for the first meeting between the Black Brothers, Phoenix Union coach John and his brother Tom, now the head man at North. It was an intriguing matchup, to say the least. Both brothers were former Tucson High and University of Arizona standouts. Their mother, Alice, made headlines by telling reports she prayed all week for a tie. She watched the first half on the Phoenix Union side, the second on North's side. Ken "Moose" Thompson, North's outstanding fullback, tried a field goal from the 23-yard line with 17-seconds remaining, but the kick sailed under the cross bar. Alice Black got her wish.

"John must be happy," said North coach Tom Black, whose team was favored. "I know I'm not. I still think we have the best team in the state. It was a moral defeat for us. We really wanted to win the game."

Still, Thompson was the star of the game. The 200-pound honor student averaged 5.4 yards through the line, put on the best punting exhibition of the season, and stuffed the Coyotes' running game on defense. His punts averaged 43.7 yards, and was the game's biggest thrill. Three of his kicks traveled 57, 55 and 54 yards. One went out of bounds on the seven yard line, and another on the six. In addition to Thompson, Kemper Marley was acclaimed the toughest adversary by the Coyotes themselves.

During the season, Phoenix Union maintained its success over West Coast schools, beating San Bernardino 22-12, San Diego 39-32, and Bakersfield 21-6, while North managed a 7-0 win over state champ Phoenix St. Mary's.

1950: PHOENIX 20, NORTH 20

The parents of John and Tom Black were happy again. For the second straight year their sons' teams fought to a tie, and this time a draw for the city championship. Big Gene Mitcham, later a star at Arizona State, was North's individual standout. He gained 119 yards on 17 carries. Phoenix Union's Jim Black (no relation to the coach) set up the Pack's first score with a 62-yard punt return, and kept the Mustangs backed up all day with six booming punts that averaged 44 yards.

By 1950, high school football in the Valley of the Sun was as strong as anywhere in the country. In October, North belted CIF champ Compton (Ca.) 26-14, snapping the Tarbabes 14-game win streak. Two weeks later, playing without Mitcham, who was hurt, the Wild Horses socked it to Santa Barbara, 48-28. Phoenix Union was just as impressive, stopping two-time Los Angeles city champ Fremont 12-6, followed by an impressive 40-0 win over Las Vegas, Nevada. State champ Mesa best PU 20-14, and North 21-13.

1951: PHOENIX 33, NORTH 0

In the biggest margin of victory in the series, this one was over early. Even Wendell "Pat" Patterson, Phoenix Union's first-year coach, was surprised. Dripping wet after the traditional dunking in the shower, Patterson was convinced his senior guard/linebacker Quentin Aycock was the star of the game: "Did you see Aycock out there? He tackled hard and blocked like a demon. Bob Jacobs and Bob Black were good too. But Aycock was great."

Aycock, a football-family name in Phoenix, spoiled North's passing game with two interceptions, and made life miserable for their receivers. Jim Christie, 240-pound Coyote tackle, lumbered 50 yards with a fumble during the game. Besides Patterson, jubilant Phoenix players threw assistants Bill Saunders, Martin Marich and Ed Long, along with former line coach Virgil Marsh, into the showers.

six-year victory famine. Patterson, out with a knee injury, was replaced by 140-pound sophomore Clyde Neilson, who handled the ball like a veteran and led both North touchdown drives. The rugged Mustang defense held Phoenix Union to 87 yards total offense. For the Coyotes, sophomore quarterback Joe Duffy, who would later sign a professional baseball contract with the Baltimore Orioles, punted seven times for a 39.5 average, and shined on defense at safety.

North's unbeaten state champs, spearheaded by all-American tailback Kenny Aycock, scored twice in the second quarter to seal the win. "I feel sorry for our kids," said first-year PU coach Sam Winningham, whose team finished 4-6. "They played to their fullest capacity but just couldn't win. But North was outstanding, a great high school team."

For Cecil Coleman's Northmen, it was too much Aycock and Perry Tsantilas. Tsantilas, a big tackle, opened the holes, and Aycock bulled over tacklers for 148 yards on 14 carries (a 10.1 average). Biggest play of the game was an 80-yard pass interception by North's Dick Kerr, who was hauled down from behind by Bill Lairson. After that it was a grueling defensive struggle. George Flint, later a guard for the Buffalo Bills, was a member of North's championship team.

1954: PHOENIX 14, NORTH 7

Nationally-ranked Phoenix Union ended North's two-year grip on the city and state title in this defensive battle, played for the first time after integration laws were enforced. In May, all-black Carver High graduated its last class, and most remaining students relocated at Phoenix Union. With the merger came a wealth of talent for second-year coach Sam Winningham. Underdog North held the Coyotes' high scoring single-wing offense in check, but committed costly miscues. An estimated 13,500 fans saw junior fullback George Greathouse, the state player of the year, carry much of PU's load. Phoenix Union capitalized on a blocked punt by Robert Fields and a fumble recovery by Tom Hulen.

1955: NORTH 7, PHOENIX 7

North's defense and Phoenix Union's George Greathouse were center stage. Greathouse, who took a physical beating, lost three fumbles in the second half, the last a controversial call on a punt return. That fumble set up North's tying touchdown, a two-yard run by Lloyd Aycock. The real hero was lanky North end Frank Evans, who stymied Union's strong running game all day. North's Allen Sandell, one of the best linebackers in the state, also played well.

Years later, Greathouse remembers the call on his punt return as though it happened yesterday. "We got screwed on that play," he insists from his business in Phoenix, Esquire Barber & Beauty Salon. "That cost us the game. But those were fun, day games. Lots of excitement. We had no problem with North players, after coming over from Carver. I played with and against a lot of good players, some who went on to college and played."

During four years of varsity, two at Carver and two at Phoenix Union, Greathouse rushed for a city record 4,551 yards and scored 63 touchdowns. North fans were glad to see him go.

1956: NORTH 39, PHOENIX 26

The score made the 16th and last Thanksgiving Day clash another surprise. North, without injured star Lloyd Aycock, piled up 448 yards on the ground, the most ever in the series. They passed for just 12. The Coyotes made a game of it by getting pin-point passing from Gary LaValley, a 145-pound junior. Filling in for Aycock was Ted Newman, a 173-pound transfer from Holbrook who punched in five touchdowns - two more than he had scored all season. Newman gained 160 yards in 15 carries for a 10.7 average per run. The victory gave the Wild Horses eight wins in the series against four losses. Four games ended in ties.

In 1957, North beat their long-time rival 14-0 on a Friday, November 23, the first clash between the schools not played on Thanksgiving Day. Instead, district officials allowed two of the city's newer schools, South Mountain and West, to take center stage in the old stadium. The famed Turkey Day tilt was over.

Long after the last North-Phoenix Union holiday classic was played (31 years to be exact), Montgomery Stadium, where so many great games were played, was bulldozed. The city tore it down in 1987, exactly 60 years after its birth.

But it didn't matter. There were no games to be played. Phoenix Union had closed five years earlier.

Only the memories remained.

Attention High School Football Coaches

Until NOW, club ball was for the other sports. Now your teams can play tackle football in the Spring. The AzFL 17 and under High School Division kicks off in January of 2003. Passing leagues are great, but what you really need is to keep them playing to get them ready. We can help. This is the perfect opportunity for you to see your underclassmen in action, in game conditions as you prepare for the Fall campaign.

For your graduates, 18 and over we have teams from Flagstaff to Tucson they can join. This will be the 9th year of play for the AzFL. Since we began we have been working with some of the top coaches in high school, college and the pros to prepare, educate and train football players to make it to the next level.

Your kids games will be broadcast for the 9th year, on cable TV statewide. They will be featured World Wide on our Streaming Video site. Their stats will be on the Internet as well as feature stories published statewide in the major and community newspapers. Since we began we have helped over 80 men get back into college to play football. We have had three play for the Rattlers, over a dozen were given NFL tryouts. Just last year, two linemen were taken to Europe, all expenses paid to play.

The proof is in the output. Many have gone from our league to become coaches at the High School and College level. We have helped promote student trainers by having them work along side our medical staff. Your goal is find young people with the "right stuff". Your time is limited, many great kids are overlooked due to time and opportunity restrictions. Together we can give them the chance they deserve. Best of all, they will be competing against High School age players. We do all the work, your teams just show up and play.

We have people on staff and their only job is to help our players get to the next level. From the PR to scholarship searches, they can help our young people succeed. We publish weekly game programs with new action photos each week. Each we compile and publish team and individual stats. Plus we have joined forces with some of the finest speed & agility trainers in the world. Add to that our relationship with NSM, National Sports Management, this makes the AzFL one of the BEST EXPOSURE venues in the nation for football players.

Mesa wins No. 11 for its Coach

Their coach was on the mend, seated in the press box with health problems. Across the field was bitter rival Mountain View, a team the Jackrabbits had beaten early in the season, 15-14. So anything could happen.

But what happened was almost predictable: Mesa 14, Mountain View 8. It was the Rabbits' second crown in three years, all under Jim Rattay. Sort of.

It was the first time the former Ohio high school coach had seen a game in a month. He had been hospitalized, fighting a fungus that cost him his right eye. The players dedicated each playoff game to their ailing coach.

Mesa built a 14-0 halftime lead before Mountain View threatened. But the defense came to the rescue in the fourth period when linebacker Mike Richardson decked quarterback Joe Germaine for a loss on fourth down near Mesa's goal. Mountain View threatened again, but defensive back Mikel Moreno (who doubled at quarterback) intercepted a halfback option pass at the one-yard line.

Moreno, like Germaine, was just a junior. But the slick Jackrabbit was hard to handle. He was a nightmare for opposing defenses. During the season he carried the ball 107 times for 939 yards and 10 touchdowns. He averaged 8.8 yards per carry, and completed 66 of 129 passes (51%) for 1,145 yards and 11 touchdowns.

The Toros, coached by Jesse Parker, finally scored with less than two minutes remaining. On fourth-and-seven Germaine (who would later be selected MVP of the 1997 Rose Bowl while playing for Ohio State) hit Brandon Berkeley with a 21-yard touchdown pass. Germaine then ran the ball in for a two-point conversion.

Then all hell broke loose.

With no timeouts, Mountain View tried an on-side kick, which was recovered by Tyler Wheeler for the Toros. But Mesa's defense met the challenge, and Jason Moncour intercepted Germaine's last pass in the end zone with four seconds left. A brawl ensued and each team's coaches helped restore order.

Parker, who would win four state championships at the school before moving to Texas, marched his team out of the stadium without waiting for the runnerup trophy.

With the win Mesa added its 11th state championship crown to its trophy case.

Only a junior, quarterback Moreno gained 939 yards rushing and scored 10 touchdowns (Mesa Tribune photo).

The win was No. 517 since 1920, the most in Arizona history. But surprisingly, by mid-October, neither Mesa school looked like a contender.

The Toros opened with three straight losses, the first a 21-7 setback to national power Honolulu St. Louis, played in Hawaii. The first loss to Mesa followed,

"I was a new defensive coordinator, and we had to get them to believe at first. Once they realized some success it got better. We pursued the ball very well."

-Coach Bill McKane

then a 26-7 defeat to top-ranked Tempe McClintock. On October 16, the Tempe school showed no sign of a letup by trouncing Mesa 19-7. But by then both Mesa schools made major changes. Mountain View switched to young Germaine at quarterback, and Mesa made changes in its defense.

"I was a new defensive coordinator, and we had to get them to believe at first," said Mesa assistant Bill McKane, who was elevated to the head job when Rattay became ill. "Once they realized some success it got better. We're very aggressive and have excellent speed on defense. We pursued the ball very well."

In the playoffs anything can happen, and it did in the first round. Mesa Westwood knocked out McClintock. Mesa then took the ball and rolled.

Arizona Lutheran Unmerciful Again

Thank the Lord for the mercy rule. That's exactly what fans from Patagonia were saying 10 years ago, after watching Arizona Lutheran Academy, one of the best 8-man teams ever in Phoenix, go through, around and over their unbeaten, untied Lobos. Final score, after only three periods of play: ALA 56, Patagonia 14.

Ouch!

But they weren't alone. The Coyotes, coached by Doug Lange, mercy-ruled all but one opponent. One school, Phoenix Day School for the Deaf, forfeited a second encounter with the state's top-ranked 1A team. No need to go through that again. Earlier, ALA wiped them out, 44-0, in a game called after three quarters.

In the state finals, played at Phoenix Christian High School, the difference was Taylor Hedrick. The 6-1, 176-pound tailback, one of the best ever in the 8-man ranks, rushed for 210 yards on 20 carries and scored a title-game record five touchdowns. He also set a record by scoring 32 points.

"I'm feeling out of this worked," said Hedrick afterwards. "It's the greatest feeling in the world, winning the state championship. It really is."

"We've got a great bunch of kids, and we've had a powerhouse all year," added Lange.

That's an understatement. Lange knew he was in for a good season if Hedrick stayed healthy. The year before, his Coyotes finished 8-2 after falling to state co-champ Fredonia 52-42 in the state semifinals. A young Hedrick rushed for 218 yards and scored three times in the loss. On the season he gained 1,387 yards and averaged 10.6 yards per carry.

When the dust had cleared from the

On the season, Hedrick averaged 12.8 yards per carry and scored 31 TDs.

'92 campaign, ALA stamped itself as one of Arizona's all-time great 8-man teams. They outscored three playoff teams 145-14, and all opponents 471-58. Defensively, they allowed "zero" rushing touchdowns for the entire season, the first and only time in state history. In the regular season the Coyotes' defense allowed 45 rushing yards for the year. Every starter, led by Hedrick, was voted first team all-conference by opposing coaches.

Overall, Hedrick rushed for 1,253 yards on 99 carries, averaging 12.8 yards per clip. He averaged 30.1 yards on kick-off returns, 20 on punt returns. He scored 31 touchdowns and six PATs for 198 points.

"He's done it all year," said Lange about his three-time all-state back. "He's faster than anybody in 1A, and he knows how to play. He's by far the best we've had here."

Kevin Irick, a four-year starter at full-back, gained 757 yards and averaged 11.4 yards per carry. He had 106 yards on nine carries and two touchdowns in the finals. Between Irick and Hedrick, the Coyotes got a first down every time they touched the ball. With these two in the backfield, quarterback Ben Hoffman didn't need to throw often. So he didn't. He gained 263 yards and scored six times, and passed just 38 times, completing 25 for 527 yards and nine touchdowns.

When post-season awards were handed out, it was no surprise that Hedrick, who had a brief stay at Arizona State, was the player of the year. Joining him on The Arizona Republic all-state squad was wide receiver Tyler Behm (8TDs, 33 yds per catch), kicker Kevin Wendt (37/40 on PATs), linemen Jason Jaehnig, Paul Meier and Irick (who doubled at full-back), defensive back Hoffman and line-backer Matt Sonntag. Wendt as the center, and lineman Scott Kahrs, a 6-3, 215-pounder, were second team selections.

"Eight man football was a lot of fun," recalls Sonntag, who today is an assistant at ALA, where the Coyotes now play 11-man. "It was a blast. Unlike a lot of 8-man games, we played great defense. We were good at it, and we were almost perfect. We pitched a lot of shutouts. Only three teams scored twice on us. I'll always remember that."

Besides Lange, who stepped down three years later, the coaching staff consisted of assistants Bob Gruetzmacher, Jim Hahn, Tom Bennett and Ed Merkyl. The Coyotes competed in 8-man competition for nine wild seasons, between 1990-98. Today they play in the 2A Metro Region, and are coached by Doug Meyer, the school's athletic director.

Ironically, the sport began as 6-man, back in 1934, founded by Stephen Epler, an assistant coach at Beatrice High School in Nebraska.

"So many small schools couldn't field teams because there wasn't enough boys to scrimmage," said Epler at the time. "So a lot of schools didn't play, or those who did got killed playing larger schools with more boys. It wasn't fair. Now more teams can compete."

In 1967, most of the country switched to 8-man. The new game bears much closer to 11-man, and it isn't dominated by just one player. The placing of four additional players on the field helped reduce the adding-machine scores often seen in 6-man.

Moon Valley Followed the Script

The Moon Valley Rockets and Trevor Browne Bruins followed the script. Twenty years ago they were the area's preseason favorites to reach the finals, and they did.

However, only Moon Valley's fans came away happy. Coach Earl "Tiny" Putman's Rockets stung the Bruins, 20-7 on a cold, wet night in Sun Devil Stadium in Tempe.

Everybody took a bath, including the Arizona Interscholastic Association, as fewer than 4,000 spectators braved the elements, the smallest "large school" crowd ever.

The win climaxed a perfect 14-0 season for Putman, the dean of prep coaches in the old Skyline Division. His Rockets rang an early-season warning bell with a 20-7 win over Tempe McClintock to go 3-0 by mid-September. Moon Valley's forward wall, led by all-state tackle Richard Bear (an Arizona State signee), stuffed the always potent Chargers' offense.

But the Rockets really opened some eyes on Nov. 5 during a 38-14 rout of Phoenix St. Mary's, played before more than 6,000 fans at Moon Valley.

"That may have been the best game ever played by a Moon Valley team," said Putman later. "Everything worked that night. After the St. Mary's game the kids felt they could beat anybody."

So they did.

A 42-0 rout of Phoenix Thunderbird finished a perfect regular season - the school's first. In the opening round of the playoffs, Glendale Apollo fell 28-0. Maryvale fared no better than before (a 36-6 loss in Sept.), falling 35-7. Then Mesa power Mountain View, toughest club in the tough Central Division, lost a 21-14 nailbiter. One week later Trevor Browne fell in the finals and Moon Valley had its first state championship trophy.

Although it was to be Putman's only state championship club, six of his next seven teams reached the playoffs. In fact, his 1986 squad finished 13-1 and lost to Mountain View in the 5A finals. He bowed out in 1989, after 24 years at Moon Valley, with a 167-85-5 record. The popular coach was a runaway winner for 1982 coach of the year honors.

Bear, the Rockets' all-state tackle, landed a scholarship to Arizona State, and was a member of the Sun Devils' Pac-10 championship team which beat Michigan in the Rose Bowl. Guard Mike Nelson and defensive back Ron Walker joined Bear on the 5A all-state team. Quarterback John Brouse, guard Jim Youngblood, place kicker Barry Duncan, and defensive linemen John Bonnell and Ken Schiffbauer also earned post-season honors.

As a defensive unit, the '82 Rockets were a real menace, giving up a touchdown or less to 10 different opponents. They intercepted 22 enemy passes and recorded six shutouts, three in a row in October. Offensively they scored 30 or more points nine times, with a 57-0 win over Paradise Valley the high point mark of the season. Overall they scored a school record 474 points and totaled 4,756 yards in 14 games.

Historically, one thing was missing from the 1982 Phoenix football scene: Phoenix Union, for the first time since statehood, didn't field a team. The once proud Phoenix city school closed in the spring. A school which had more than 6,000 students in 1963, which had sent more graduates into the college ranks than any Arizona school, and won a state record 25 state football championships, closed its doors for good.

"That may have been the best game ever played by a Moon Valley team. Everything worked. After the St. Mary's game the kids felt they could beat anybody."

Fiesta Bowl II a Track Meet

Al Onofrio wasn't surprised. Disappointed but not surprised. The head coach of the Missouri Tigers just watched his team get run over by the best offense in college football. Maybe the best ever.

"I used to coach at Arizona State," said Onofrio recently, who resides in Tempe. "Way back with Dan Devine. We had a good staff, with Dan, (Frank) Kush, and (Cecil) Coleman. They had great speed then."

But on this December night in 1972, before 51,318 fans in Tempe (and a limited television audience), the Big 8 rep ran into the fastest football team on the planet. When the final seconds ticked down, A-State's nationally ranked team, 10-2 on the season, was 2-0 in Fiesta Bowl games following a 49-35 win.

It wasn't that close

A last-minute score by Tommy Reaman and a 100-yard kickoff return by the Tigers' Mike Fink made the score close. "They are everything we ever heard about, or read about" said Fink, the game's most valuable defensive player. "Their speed is unreal."

When asked in the locker room how he thought A-State would do in the Big 8, a conference ruled by Nebraska and Oklahoma, Onofrio replied, "How do I think they'd do? That's a stupid question. We just gave up 50 points and 1,000 yards in about 20 minutes. How do you think they'd do? There's no way you can stop speed like Arizona State's unless you have speed too."

Actually, Onofrio's game but out-manned team gave up 49 points, 33 first downs and a bowl record 718 yards. Amazingly, Arizona State's "time of possession" was only 17 minutes.

This Sun Devil club, like most teams coached by Kush, looked good even when they played bad. Cases in point: During the Devils' two losses, they scored 43 and 31 points. First to Wyoming on the road in Laramie, then to a fired-up Air Force team in Tempe.

But in the Fiesta Bowl they were near-perfect. Junior Woody Green capped a great season with four rushing touchdowns. He carried 25 times for 202 net yards. Fullback Brent McClanahan also broke the 100-yard barrier, gaining 171 yards on 26 carries and scoring once. Quarterback Danny White, another junior, passed for 226 yards and two touchdowns as the Devils won their third straight bowl game.

White (11), just a junior, passed for 226 yards and two touchdowns, while Green (22) gained 202 yards and scored four times (Tempe Daily News photo).

Overall, A-State's '72 team set a modern major-college record by scoring 513 points. Since NCAA statistics were first tabulated in 1937, the most points ever scored in a single season was 504 by Army's wartime champs of 1944. Army needed only nine games to total that, so their 56.0 average topped the Sun Devils' 46.6.

Danny White was the most productive quarterback in all of college football this year. He passed for one touchdown every 5.4 completions, and one TD every 10.4

attempts. In touchdowns responsible (TDs scored and passed), he produced a six-pointer every 10 plays. The Sun Devils 5,681 yards total offense was a WAC record.

"They are probably the best offensive team in the country," said New Mexico coach Rudy Feldman after a 60-7 loss in Tempe, a game in which ASU backs rushed for 481 yards and scored eight times. "There is not a college or professional team in the U.S.A. that can match ASU's speed."

"I'm going to vote the Sun Devils first and second in the WAC, and third in the NFL," wrote sports writer John Mooney of the Salt Lake Tribune, after ASU knocked out Utah (59-48) and BYU (49-17) on consecutive weekends. "All you hear about is Arizona State's speed," added BYU mentor LaVell Edwards. "And that's about all we did in the second half - hear it."

ABC play-by-play announcer Bud Wilkinson, the former Oklahoma head coach, best summed it up after the Devils' 33-28 opening season win over Houston on television: "There is no substitute for speed. They are truly the fastest collegiate team in America."

By THOMAS MOORE

"How do I think they'd do? That's a stupid question. We just gave up 50 points and 1,000 yards in about 20 minutes. How do you think they'd do? There's no way you can stop speed like Arizona State's unless you have speed too."

Remember the Titans

Scottsdale Arcadia head coach Bob Hendricks, an all-star quarterback in his own playing days, felt he knew how to derail Tucson's high-scoring and No. 1-ranked Badgers.

The former Arizona State quarterback's team almost shutout favored Tucson, which was averaging 35.7 points and 400 yards per game with their "Spinning T" formation.

The Titans' strategy was to jam the Tucson center and alter the quarterback's timing. At the start of the 1962 state championship game, Badger signal caller Delbert Salazar was stepped on as the Arcadia nose guard, Richard Gray, jammed the Tucson center, knocking him back into Salazar. Tucson, one of the finest ball-handling teams in the high school ranks, fumbled five times. Final score: Arcadia 40, Tucson 7.

"We noticed on film that their ball handling was so good it was hard to tell where the football was," said Hendricks after the game. "But their quarterback turned his back to the defense. We've been jamming centers all year and tonight Richard Gray had it down to perfection."

Gray, a 6-2, 210-pound junior, played nose-to-nose on three different Tucson centers most of the night.

"We knew they were a good team," Hendricks added, "But we just got the jump on them. I guess Tucson didn't expect us to be as tough as we were."

Hendricks, still breathless from being carried across the field by his players, pointed to his blue-shirted Titans, "They were really up for this game. They wanted it real bad."

Tucson players left Sun Devil Stadium shell-shocked. After running up 10 straight wins, including an impressive 21-12 win over Phoenix Union in the semifinals, they had been completely out-classed.

"We weren't ready for this one," Tucson coach John Mallamo said. "But I can't take anything away from Arcadia. They were tough."

Arcadia's brawny line frustrated the usually menacing Badgers, who had looked so impressive against Phoenix Union (and All-American linebacker Fred Carr), and during regular season play. Against Arcadia, Tucson was a 12-point favorite.

But tackles Bob Bertelsen, a University of Kansas signee, and Gary Swift, an Oregon State signee, along with Gray, manhandled Tucson's line, and forced Salazar to rush his assignments.

The Titans, playing in their second state championship game in three years, turned two pass interceptions, a fumble, and three sustained drives into a 20-0 halftime lead. On defense, they stuffed the Badgers' talented backfield, which included Mike Green, Lennie Don, and Clyde and Jimmy Williams.

- Bod Hendricks

Arcadia's backfield of John Propstra, Everett "Moose" Rollins, Pat McGinty and Dana Woudenberg was unstoppable. Rollins, the Arizona Player of the Year, scored three touchdowns, McGinty scored two, and Woudenberg, a 207-pound junior who latter attended USC, capped the scoring with a 56-yard sprint in the final period. Junior James "Nicky" Nichols ran 71 yards for a score which was erased by a clipping penalty.

After the season, the National Sports News Service, located in Minneapolis, ranked Arcadia No.8 in the U.S.A., the highest national ranking by an Arizona school since Phoenix Union landed the No. 7 spot in 1954.

4A Players, Teams Flex Their Muscles

By BARRY SOLLENBERGER

When it comes to recruiting potential college football talent, college scouts are finding the Arizona 4A ranks prime hunting grounds. In fact, in the past decade, almost as many players from 4A schools have signed with Division I schools as the larger 5A institutions.

Last fall, Sunnyslope quarterback Mike Nixon, the Arizona Player of the Year who signed with UCLA, became the seventh 4A player in the past 10 years to earn state player of the year honors.

Nixon, a varsity starter since his freshman year, earned a one-year stay at Sunnyslope for the Vic Householder Trophy, given annually to the school who produces the state football player of the year. Nixon and head coach Dallas Hickman were presented the four-foot-tall trophy in January, at the Scottsdale Quarterback Club's annual Super All-State luncheon. The trophy is named after the late Arizona Republic columnist and sports guru, who is considered the "father of the all-state teams."

During Nixon's varsity career the Vikings' quarterback/safety/kicker passed for a state record 8,091 yards and 74 touchdowns. He scored 20 touchdowns rushing, intercepted 16 passes, kicked 25 field goals and 129 extra points. During his senior year he averaged 44.2 yards per punt.

Last year, the Vikings near-perfect season ended in a 27-24 double-overtime loss to Phoenix Greenway in the state quarterfinals. But it wasn't Nixon's last game as a Viking. In the Arizona High School All-Star Game in June, in which the 4A schools faced the larger 5A teams, Nixon returned a fumble 23 yards for a score, ran in from 6-yards out on a quarterback keeper, and secured a 25-11 victory with a late pass interception.

Overall, it was a great June for Nixon, his family and friends. An outstanding catcher in baseball, he was picked in the third round of the major league baseball draft by the Los Angeles Dodgers.

While Nixon closed out a stellar four-year varsity career, Saguaro's Kellen Bradley almost put together the best single season performance in Arizona history. The Sabercats' stunning loss to Tucson Sunnyside in the 4A semifinals prevented Bradley from reaching the top of the record books. Still, the future ASU player completed 63% of his passes for 2,929 yards and 38 touchdowns. He threw just 10 interceptions.

The 4A all-star backfield also included McClintock running back Randy Hill, and Tempe's Maurice Smith, at 5-5, 155-pounds the smallest player on the field. But during the regular season Smith was a giant of a player. While leading the Buffaloes to a berth in the semifinals, he rushed for a school record 2,321 yards and scored 30 touchdowns. Last fall Hill, an Arizona State signee, did damage of his own. He gained 2,330 yards and scored 36 times and 220 points - both state highs.

Phoenix Camelback produced its best team in years, thanks to a talented junior class and senior tailback Marques Broom. The 5-10, 170-pound scatback gained 1,511 yards and scored 27 touchdowns for the Spartans, which saw their season end in a playoff loss to Scottsdale Horizon. In that game Camelback gave the Huskies all they could handle in a 27-21 nailbiter.

Marques Broom
Camelback

The Phoenix area was loaded with good wideouts, and most of them resided in Chandler. Big Adam Mannon of state finalist Hamilton, another top-notch baseball prospect, led the state with 68 receptions for 1,081 yards and 15 touchdowns. An ASU baseball signee, Mannon was selected in the 17th round by the Milwaukee Brewers. Across town little Josh Jordan, the two-time state long jump champ, averaged 24.3 yards on 40 catches - best in the state - and scored 12 touchdowns. Last spring his 24-foot, 3-inch long jump at the Great Southwest Track Classic was one of the 10 best in the nation. The Wolves' talented pass catcher was just a junior.

Athletically, few players were as versatile as Horizon's Mike Falco, one of the best ever under coach Doug Shaffer. The Huskies talented senior, a Rice University signee, amassed 2,081 yards rushing and receiving in an injury-plagued year, scoring 28 touchdowns in the process.

It was another banner year in the trenches for Arizona's schoolboy products. All five members of the Super All-State interior line signed with major universities. Two, Canyon del Oro's Stephen Berg (6-6, 306) and St. Johns Chaz White (6-5, 315), signed with Arizona State. So impressive was White's performance in the 2A All-Star game, he was selected MVP of the contest, a rarity for linemen in all-star games. Horizon's Clayton Walker (Washington), Mesa's Taitusi Lutui (Utah) and McClintock's Jason Karcher (Wyoming), round out the interior line.

Defensively, almost every player ended up in Division I schools, or major league baseball teams. Prescott's Jason Pride, the Arizona Player of the Year in baseball, was picked in the second round of major league's baseball draft by the Tampa Bay Devil Rays. One of the Badgers' all-time greats, Pride caught seven touchdown passes and scored six rushing, and lead his team in interceptions with six from his safety position.

Not to be overlooked is Agua Fria's Mike Talbot, the Owls' All-American track & field star. The 6-2, 230-pound fullback/linebacker/defensive end, another ASU signee, threw the discus 196-feet, 6-inches at the 4A state meet, one of the best throws in the United States this year, and the fifth best in Arizona history.

Former Agua Fria Pro Hangs it Up

By SAMMY WRIGHT

He came out of Avondale's Agua Fria High in 1983 as a highly touted tight end. He was one of the schools best-ever athletes, excelling in football, basketball and track, where he threw the discus. But little did Randall McDaniel know that his football career would last 18 more seasons.

McDaniel, recently a Tampa Bay Buccaneer guard, retired in February after 14 NFL seasons, including an NFL-record 12 straight Pro Bowl starts. At age 37, McDaniel was in danger of being cut as the Bucs struggled to meet a deadline to comply with the NFL's salary cap. His retirement saved the franchise $2 million against the cap.

"It's been an incredible journey," said McDaniel, who played his first 12 seasons with the Minnesota Vikings, and started his last 202 games, the league's second-longest current streak. "Now it's time to end this chapter of my life."

McDaniel was one of 31 former Arizona schoolboy products on active NFL rosters last fall. But his career took a surprising turn after his second season at Arizona State. In 1984, at 6-foot 5, 248 pounds, he started ASU's final six games at quick guard after playing third-string tight end the previous year. He practiced only eight days at guard before starting.

"He had superstar written all over him," claimed Sun Devil line coach Tom Freeman at the time. "He's an excellent athlete who possesses very quick feet."

"That switch from tight end to guard, although he might have done it reluctantly, made him a millionaire," said McDaniel's former high school coach Pat Lavin.

Everybody benefited. Within two years of the switch Arizona State was in the Rose Bowl, where they defeated Michigan 22-15 with an offensive line made up entirely of Arizona products: McDaniel, center Kevin Thomas (Canyon del Oro), tackle Danny Villa (Nogales), guard Todd Kalis (Phoenix Thunderbird) and tackle Jim Warne (Tempe). All but Warne played in the NFL.

Close behind McDaniel in longevity is former Tucson Sahuaro quarterback Rodney Peete, Phoenix Metro

Football Magazine's 1982 Arizona Player of the Year as a junior. The tight end on that dream team was McDaniel, who was a senior. Peete broke more than a few Tucson Sahuaro hearts when he moved to Kansas City before his senior year.

But his college choice was USC, where he led the Trojans to back-to-back Rose Bowls and finished runnerup in the Heisman Trophy voting in 1988 - to Barry Sanders. Starting with the Detroit Lions the next year, Peete has called signals, as a backup or a starter, for Dallas, Philadelphia, Oakland and now Carolina during a 13-year NFL career. Entering the upcoming 2002 season, Peete is listed as the Panthers' No. 2 quarterback behind Chris Weinke.

However, both McDaniel and Peete play second fiddle to former Scottsdale Saguardo product Dale Hellestrae when it comes to longevity. Hellestrae earned all-city honors in both football and basketball before attending Scottsdale Community College and later Southern Methodist. Sixteen years later he completed what might have been his last pro season, as the long snapper for the

Gerard

Baltimore Ravens.

"It might work out this summer and it might not," said Hellestrae in June, when asked about the possibility of a 17th NFL season. "If not it's been a great ride. Who would have guessed? In high school I was center for the basketball team."

Not to be overlooked is Seattle Seahawk punter Jeff Feagles, a Phoenix and Miami of Florida product. Feagles high school - Gerard Catholic - closed, but his leg is very much alive. Last year was his 14th season in the league, kicking for New England, Philadelphia, Arizona and Seattle in that order. Feagles' former high school, located at 44th Street & Oak, closed its doors during his first year in the NFL.

Another victim of the NFL salary cap - at least temporarily - is offensive tackle John Fina, the former Tucson Salpointe and University of Arizona star. Fina, the last link to the Buffalo Bills' four straight AFC championship teams, was released in June to allow the Bills to free close to $3 million under the cap.

Surprisingly, all four of the Arizona quarterbacks on NFL rosters last year played backup roles, including Peete with the Raiders. The newcomer was Buffalo Bills signal caller Travis Brown, a Phoenix Moon Valley product and the second Northern Arizona University quarterback to reach this level since 1996. Two years ago former Lumberjack Jeff Lewis was a backup with the Carolina Panthers.

What more can be said about Chicago Bears defensive back Mike Brown, whose midseason heroics last year earned him praise throughout the league. In 1995, at Scottsdale Saguaro, Brown was the best high school player in the state, as a running back (35 touchdowns, 2,023 yards) and a defensive back. Four years later he was an All-American safety at Nebraska, and the defensive MVP of the Fiesta Bowl.

On an average, eight former Arizona high school products hook up with NFL teams each year, as draft picks or free agents. Among drafted newcomers were two former Arizona stars from opposite ends of the scale, South Mountain defensive back Rashad Bauman (5-8, 175) and Eloy Santa Cruz tackle Levi Jones (6-6, 310).

Bauman, drafted in the third round by the Washington Redskins, was the 1996 Class 5A Player of the Year, as a running back, kick returner and defensive back. He was the recipient of the Tyrone Byrd Award, named after the former Chandler High star, given annually to the state's best defensive back. Jones, a product of one of Arizona's most historic high school football programs, is the first Eloy product to reach the NFL since Eddie Cade (another ASU product) played with Buffalo several years back. Jones was a first round pick of the Bengals.

Which 2001 NFL team had the most Grand Canyon State products? The Super Bowl runnerup Rams with four: Trung Canidate, Robert Holcombe, Frank Garcia, and rookie sensation Adam Archuleta.

Pima a Menace in JC Circuit

By Jeff Krider

The always tough Arizona Community College football league, competitive from top to bottom, just got tougher. In a stunning debut last August, first-year program Pima of Tucson, under former high school coach Jeff Scurran, stunned defending NJCAA camp Glendale 29-20 in the Storm's first-ever game, played before 5,000-plus fans at Tucson Santa Rita High.

It was a hot, disappointing night for the visiting Gauchos. The rest of the league better get used to it. Pima is here to stay. Scurran, who built local Sabino High into a statewide powerhouse, was named the school's first football coach one year before they played a game. From the first day on the job, Scurran and his staff went after Tucson's local high school crop, "Players who might be on the bubble," he said.

"Before now a lot of kids who didn't get a college scholarship might get one if they stick with it for two more years," added Scurran, who played in five state championship games at Sabino, winning three. "That's what's great about having a JC football program in Tucson. Having a team here will help keep some of the kids careers alive."

Overall, seven different Arizona junior colleges play football. In Maricopa County, the surprise rep in the Valley of the Sun Bowl was Scottsdale, which lost during the season 36-14 to Eastern Arizona, which lost more than its share of games, as usual. Yes, the league is very competitive. Scottsdale started strong, including a dramatic 16-15 win over Snow College of Utah in September. One week later the Artichokes took advantage of 10 New Mexico Military turnovers for a 35-28 win in Roswell. Before the month was over, SCC became a front-runner for a post-season bowl with a 28-24 win over Mesa.

How bizarre is overall play in the Western States Football League? Ask SCC head coach Ken Giovando, who was hardly a happy camper as his team prepared for Garden City (KS) in postseason play. The Artichokes finished regular season play on a soar note, a 47-7 bombing at Ricks College in Idaho.

"I should be jumping up and down because we're going to a bowl game,"

Junior College Preview

Scurran, who built Tucson Sabino into a state power, guides the Storm into their second season.

Giovando told the media after the Ricks game. "But I'm not."

Later in the month it got a little better. But not much. Quarterback Jack Tomco led a 31-point second half with three touchdown passes, but the Broncobusters (9-2) recovered Scottsdale's last kickoff and ran out the clock. The Artichokes (6-5) trailed 23-0 in the third period before scoring their first points.

Look for Glendale to bounce back from a .500 season to make a run for the league crown. At least that's the bio for Joe Kersting's forces in past years. The Gauchos (5-5) return half their roster, with team speed vastly improved through recruiting. Although the offensive line is young, it will be big and strong, averaging over 250-pounds per man. Freshman Paul Kitchen (6-3, 310) anchors the front.

Quarterback Jeremy Copeland is surrounded with speed, including backs Cory

Woods, Geoff Ducksworth and Trent Ryberg, a 6-2, 240-pound fullback. All three are sophomores. Wideout Daniel White and tight end Justin Walker form a good receiving corps. Defensively, Kersting is set, especially on the flanks, with defensive ends Gerald Johnson (6-4, 235) and J.C. Braker (6-6, 225), plus a secondary made up of the likes of Chris McKenzie, Carl Marshall and Eric Wright.

With seven starters back on defense, Mesa should be improved. The Thunderbirds (5-5) were one play away from a holiday bowl. Snow scored on a short pass to beat Mesa 43-39 in a wild October game at John Riggs Stadium. "That loss cost us a lot," says head coach David Rice, whose team gave up five touchdown passes that night. "I hope our defense is more competitive."

The T'birds' defense will be built around three all-conference picks and two key transfers from four-year schools. Linebacker Josh Ah You (6-0, 240), from American Samoa, cornerback Mike Roberts (6-1, 190), and kicker Dan Gutman (6-0, 175) are sophomores with post season honors. It was Roberts who saved the day with a 102-yard interception return on a two-point conversion pass in the third overtime of a 21-19 win over Glendale. Three weeks later he scored on a 95-yard pass interception during a 35-28 win over Pima. Newcomers C.J. Blomvall (6-5, 310) and Sam Peterson (6-10, 335) tip the scales heavy in their favor. Peterson, just a freshman, transferred from Minnesota.

A season which began with great promise - an opening day win over Snow College - went south in a hurry for Phoenix College. The Bears' opening day win on the road was their first in Ephraim, Utah, since 1984. But with Gary Cook's young offense averaging only 14 points per game, Phoenix was winless after that. Look for the Bears' running game to improve behind tackles Hayden Harper (6-5, 280) and Tony Lopez (6-4, 295). Big Mike Weathersbee (6-3, 245) is a good blocking tight end. The secondary is one of the fastest in the league with safety Todd Yarter (5-10, 185), and corners Tony Gray (5-10, 190) and James Thompson (5-11, 180).

"The most striking difference will be a great deal more team speed, on both sides of the ball," says Cook.
